IN THE BEE TO-DAY.

WEATHER.

Indications are for rain, followed by clearing, cooler weather.

As to the conditions and indications Mr. George H. Hazen, the observer, has the following to say:

"To-day's storm is central on Lake Superior, and is moving eastward rapidly accompanied by high southwesterly winds and followed by high westerly winds and a cool wave. The lowest temperature shown at 8 o'clock this morning on the weather bureau map is 20 degrees at Cheyenne and Assiniboine, the highest 72 degrees at Galveston. Sudden falls of 22 degrees were reported from Moorhead and St. Paul, Minn., LaCrosse, Des Moines and North Platte.

"Gales are reported at Milwaukee, Chicago, Marquette, Cleveland, Port Huron and Buffalo.

"The extent of this storm is probably 1,200 miles east and west and 1,400 miles north and south. The probabilities are for very little rain and clearing weather this afternoon. The temperature will begin falling to-night, and by Monday morning we will have a comparative cold wave, which will continue for about three days and be accompanied by clear weather and northwest winds, becoming high Sunday morning."

Forecast for western New York and Ohio—Fair to-night, except light rain on the lakes; stationary temperature; southerly winds.

For Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin—Fair to-morrow; decidedly colder; northwesterly winds.

LABOR NOT IN IT

With the People Who Support McKinley.

Read the Iron Clad East Liverpool Contract

Made By the Men Who Oppose Campbell,

And Reason With Yourself Before Voting.

The Men Who Want the Prince of High Tariff Elected Forced Their Workmen to Renounce Unionism and Chose Between Serfdom and Starvation.

Columbus, Oct. 31.—The East Liverpool potters are squirming under the scorching administered to them by Gov. Campbell last week.

It is evident he told some wholesome truths and that certain parties now regret having packed the hall with paid hirelings who were sent to interrupt the meeting being addressed by the governor of the state.

In their open letter, under date of October 23, to the governor, the gentlemen make loud professions of love for their workmen and endeavor to show that all is serene and harmonious and that the men neither want nor expect an increase of pay.

This statement of their case is a little peculiar, to say the least, in the face of what has been done in the past, which is a matter of history. It will be remembered that, not many years since, when the first assembly of Knights of Labor was organized at East Liverpool, the boss potters attempted to break up the union of the workmen, which was intended to protect them from the grinding monopolists.

When the assembly of the Knights of Labor was first organized, the United States Potters' association, which is nothing less than a combination for the regulation of the prices at which their product is to be sold and to restrict the output and fix the wages of their employes, endeavored to break up the organization.

This organization also provides a resolution passed at one of their meetings that one manufacturer shall not employ a man from another establishment in the combination without a certificate of discharge and recomendation; in other words, the employes are prohibited from accepting a position at increased wages if it is offered to them.

Failing to break up the Knights of Labor organization, nine of the potteries locked their doors against the workmen, throwing out of employment over 400 men, besides women and children.

Matters stood in this condition for several weeks, when the bosses offered a compromise in the following language:

"That the undersigned parties under a contract for our mutual understanding hereby agree to the following conditions, namely: I, A. B., agree to work for C. D. at my trade at the established prices, and to do my work in a good, workmanlike manner, and the condition of which the said C. D. agrees to pay the said A. B. for his services every two weeks, as customary, necessary stoppages excepted. We also mutually agree to ignore all outside parties and associations in the conditions and performances of this contract, which shall remain in force so long as it is mutually satisfactory and which can only be dissolved by either party giving two weeks' notice to the other, unless for bad workmanship or violation of rules."

The workmen agreed after deliberation to accept the above proposition inasmuch as it seemed to bind both the employer and the employe, but when they presented themselves to work and sign the agreement they were refused that privilege because of the fact that the contract bound both parties to the agreement. In its stead what was known as "the famous ironclad contract" was presented to the workmen for their signatures. This ironclad contract which the men were required to sign was in the following language:

"For the locked out potters of East Liverpool I (A. B.) hereby agree to work for C. D. at my trade at the regular established prices, doing my work in a good workmanlike manner, withdrawing from the Knights of Labor and ignoring all outside parties of the contest and all labor associations, and also agree not to connect myself with the Knights of Labor or any similar organization or join any meeting or procession of such organization while in the employ of the said C. D., in consideration of which the said C. D. agrees to pay the said A. B. for his services every two weeks, as is customary, necessary stoppage excepted. The above agreement can only be terminated by either party giving the other two weeks' notice, unless for bad workmanship, violation of this contract or the rules of the shop, or interference with other workmen."

This ironclad contract does not look as if there was contentment at the time. A careful reading will convince anyone that the men who attached their signatures to the ironclad contract virtually signed away their rights and privileges as American citizens, even being prohibited from taking part in a public procession of the Knights of Labor.

In view of these facts, the logical conclusion is that Gov. Campbell did not overdraw his statement of facts at the meeting after he had been several times interrupted by the ill-mannerly and ungentlemanly hirelings who were sent there for the purpose.

PUNISHMENT WAS SWIFT.

How British Sailors Treat the Is anders.

Notes from the Log of the Royalist.

Captain Davis Marches Into Their Homes and Shoots Down the People Who Murdered His Men.

San Francisco, Oct. 31.—Letters received from the Solomon group of islands give particulars of the cruise of Her Majesty's ship Royalist among the islands, and the punishment inflicted by Capt. Davis on the natives for outrages committed on British subjects.

The vessel visited Rubiana and, by a little stratagem, Capt. Davis secured the chief, named Toolco, from the village. He is now a prisoner on board the Royalist pending further inquries.

Dobeli was next visited. It was at this village that four boys belonging to the cutter Freak were massacred. Capt. Davis sent a message to Chief Tono demanding that the murderers be handed over to him.

Receiving no reply, he, much to the surprise of the natives, landed with a party of twenty-five men and went to their village, five or six miles inland, where Chief Tono was shot down.

The chief, with several of his tribe, was observed prowling around the landing party, and it was evident that the natives would have done further mischief had their leaders not been shot.

The village was burned, and before returning to the ship the men went along the coast about three miles south and destroyed two war canoes.

The massacre of two natives belonging to the Sydney schooner Marshall was reported to Capt. Davis at the islands. They had been enticed away from their vessel and then killed.

A chief named Parango, who turned queen's evidence in the Howard case, was brought on board the Royalist, but one night he suddenly disappeared, having, it is supposed, jumped overboard.

The officers of the Royalist managegd while at the islands to trace the whereabouts of a woman who had been stolen when the unfortunate trader Tom Dabelle was murdered two years ago. This woman supplied some important information, which will doubtless lead to the arrest of the natives concerned in the murder. The Royalist is now at Cairns, but she is expected to return to the Solomon islands to complete her work.

HOOTED A BLIND SOLDIER,

Because He Declared for Governor Campbell,

Who Was a Gallant Member of the Union Army.

Government Offices Prostituted and Much Abuse Heaped on a Poor Blind Organ Grinder by Republican Politicians.

Canton, Oct. 31.—(Special)—The mail carriers of this city who wear the McKinley collar and bogus tin badge, are being used to distribute, without stamps, thousands of circulars claiming that the republicans are the friends of soldiers.

The circular did not state that McKinley voted against the service pension bill after 400,000 veterans petitioned for it.

Neither did it state that 619 old veterans were recently turned out of the census office to make room for women of doubtful virtue, one of whom was the notorious mistress of one of the heads of a department.

In order to show how the republicans love the soldier it is only necessary to state that a blind veteran organ grinder on the streets here to-day was shamefully abused because he made a statement against McKinley.

It seems he lost his pension papers and Major McKinley refused to assist him in getting a renewal of them, probably because he happened to be a democrat.

Among those who heaped abuse on his head was the president of the city council, who claims to be a veteran. A number of "home guards," or the cornstalk militia, also took part in the disgraceful affair.

UPS AND DOWNS IN LIFE.

Prices Go Up and Wages Come Down.

Such Are the Results of the McKinley Bill as Seen in Every Day Life Among the People.

Tiffin, O., Oct. 31.—An interview had by your correspondent with A. W. Gundlach, a well known contractor of this city, conclusively shows what effect the McKinley bill has had on the price of tin. He says:

"The McKinley bill has cost me not less than $300. Before it went into effect I had contracts for roofing and spouting based upon the former prices of tin and terne plate. Prices advanced and left me in the lurch. The 'IX' tin, used in spounting, that I bought for $6 per box now costs me $8 and roofing tin, or terne plate, has jumped from $8.75 to $10.75 per box and the better grades advanced $4 per box."

Mr. Gundlach's annual business, wherein tin is a factor, amounts to about $3,500 and his loss under the McKinley bill this year was fully 10 per cent. of that sum.

Philip Strandler, another dealer in tin, confirms the preceding statement and shows his bills for the past three years to prove his assertion in regard to the increase in the price of tin which McKinley says has not advanced. The testimony of these men who stand high in the business circles of the city, will open the eyes of many in regard to the iniquitous tariff law.

MASSACRED BY NATIVES.

Frightful Slaughter Reported at Subervieville.

The Town of Majunga, on the Bembatooka Bay Almost Entirely Destroyed by Fire.

Paris Oct. 31.—A Madagascar dispatch published in the Petit Journal says that Majunga, an important town on the northwest coast at the entrance of Bembatooka bay, has been almost entirely destroyed by fire, only ten houses being left standing. The loss is estimated at $200,000.

The same paper also publishes Madagascar advices to the effect that the natives have massacred a number of French soldiers who were acting as an escort to Dr. Beziat, chief of the medical staff of the French colony at Subervieville.

The doctor was descending Betsiboka river on his way to Majunga, escorted by eleven native soldiers of the auxiliary French force when they were suddenly attacked by an unabished band of Madagascar brigands. The soldiers at once returned the fire opened on them from the jungle.

One of the first to succumb to the attack was Dr. Beziat, who was shot through the body while in the act of emptying his revolver at his hidden enemies. As he was on the point of again firing the gallant Frenchman received a second shot. He then fell into the river where he was dispatched with assegais hurled at him by the concealed bandits. Eight native soldiers of the escort were killed and the baggage of the party looted. Troops are in pursuit.

BLOOD WAS SHED.

Miners Release the Convicts in Tennessee.

A Fierce Battle in Which Many Were Killed.

The Prisoners Supplied With Citizen's Clothes

And Told to Make Haste for the State Line.

The Miners Are Desperate and Will Repeat the Operation at Other Points—A Continuous Firing Can Be Heard—Governor Buchanan Notified.

Knoxville, Tenn., Oct. 31.—The miners of the Coal creek district last night took the law into their own hands.

The stockade at the Tennessee Mining company's plant was burned, the convicts turned loose, given citizens' clothes and told to leave the country.

The guards met the advance with firing and several of the miners fell. They had a force of sharp shooters in the back ground and after several of the guards had been hit they drew back and made a less prominent but little less effective battle.

They were overpowered, however, and soon the victorious miners had entered the enclosure and driven the guards into their quarters. In the quarters occupied by the convicts there was great activity.

The men were willing enough to make a break and they got away as quickly as possible. They went singly and in groups, but quickly, until it was but a few minutes when the last of the convicts had vanished in the woods, making tracks for the state line.

The guards, however, kept up a harrassing fire from Winchesters and did much execution.

The miners lost, it is said, ten killed and twice as many wounded. In order to make the arrival of aid as slow as possible a small party of men had gone down the railroad each way and cut the wires, thus keeping all knowledge of the affair quiet until nearly midnight.

When the trouble became known the owners of the mines began to search for new guards, and they kept at this until they had roused the sheriff and posse at midnight.

Nothing has been heard from them and it is not known whether they reached Briceville at all. They arrived too late, however, if they did get there, for the flames had done much damage, having been communicated to the company's buildings.

Soon after the men were set free the greater portion of the mob started for the mines near by with the intention of keeping up their work. No news of them has been heard.

A special from Clinton says: "Labor Commissioner Alleman arrived here at midnight from Briceville and was interviewed. He says that the Tennessee company's stockade has been burned and 150 convicts released by miners, given citizens' clothing and told to skip. The guards and miners are still fighting. He says the miners will go to the Knoxville Iron company's place next and repeat the dose, then to Oliver Springs. Reports of firing can be heard in Clinton."

The liberators came from every section, and assembling in force marched on the stockade. Their first act was to blow up the magazine. The uprights of the stockade were knocked off and the convicts released. They then volunteered to help their rescuers in the attack on the Chumles stockade.

A continuous firing was kept up. The guards of the Chumles stockade were preparing against the attack. Bonfires were built all around to prevent a surprise. The miners have taken possession of the telegraph office at Coal Creek and no messages were allowed to be received or sent. Gov. Buchanan has been notified of the outbreak.

LATER ACCOUNT.

Four Hundred and Sixty Convicts Were Released.

Knoxvilla, Tenn., Oct. 31.—Full particulars of the trouble at Briceville are difficult to obtain, as the wires have been cut between Clinton and Coal Creek and Jellico.

The first attack was made at 9 o'clock on the stockade of the Tennessee Mining company at Briceville. The stockade was surrounded by at least 3,000 miners armed with Winchesters.

The guards were overawed by the superior numbers and offered no resistance, feeling that it would be useless and probably result in great loss of life.

One hundred and forty-one convicts were attired in citizens suits and released, after which the stockade and three other buildings were burned.

The miners then made an attack on the stockades of the Knoxville Iron company at Coal Creek, where they overpowered the guards. Convicts to the number of 320 were furnished citizens suits and released. The stockades at Coal Creek were also burned.

It has been ascertained that a large number of citizens suits were purchased several days ago. It is reported this morning that most of the miners have gone toward the Kentucky line.

CANNOT FREEZE JOHN OUT.

Sherman Proposes to Stay in the Fight.

Neither Foraker Nor Foster Can Be United States Senator If He Has Anything to Say About It.

Columbus, O., Oct. 31.—The Evening Dispatch publishes a rumor to the effect that Senator Sherman is to withdraw from the senatorial race and throw his strength to Secretary Foster.

The report is laughed at by politicians who understand that the senatorial contest was commenced by Sherman and Donaldson long before the first nomination was made. Jake Donaldson says Sherman is in the race to stay.

PLATFORM GAVE WAY.

A Number of Persons Injured at a Political Meeting.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 31.—During the democratic parade last night a portion of the reviewing stand at the corner of Eautau and Madison streets collapsed. On the stand were seated about 200 persons. The reviewing party fell in a heap and Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Phillips went down with them. The crowd shouted, the ladies screamed and many fainted. It was found that all of them were more or less injured, though not seriously.

Senator Gorman was bruised on the legs; Frank Brown had his knee hurt; Mr. Compton had a bone in his foot broken and his ankle badly twisted; Mr. McLane was bruised on the legs and arms; Mr. Vandiver had an ankle sprained; Mrs. Brown was hurt about her ankles and Mrs. Phillips had her ankle either broken or badly sprained.

CONVICTED OF MANSLAUGHTER.

Belfast, Mo., Oct. 31.—Lewis Brewster, 71 years old, who has been on trial for killing Charles A. Brown, was to-day convicted of manslaughter. Exceptions were filed and bail was fixed at $6,000. Brown was a tramp who was taken in out of charity by Brewster. He became too intimate with Mrs. Brewster and in a recent quarrel was shot by Brewster, who claims he acted in self-defense.

KNOCKED INTO A PIT.

Bangor, Pa., Oct. 31.—While an employe of the Excelsior Slate company was tending a gate at the head of the quarry and while trying to haul in a stone weighing about a ton, a severe wind storm started the derrick which struck the man and dashed him head first into a pit 75 feet deep. He was instantly killed.

TEN BUILDINGS BURNED.

Brazil, Ind., Oct. 31.—The Turnbuckle factory of this city, owned and operated by the Brazil Steel and Iron company, was destroyed by fire this morning. Loss $40,000, insurance $10,000. Fifty employes are thrown out of work.

JUDGE IN TROUBLE.

Berlin, Oct. 31.—By order of the political department of the Berlin police all the sezable copies of the New York Judge for October have been confiscated immediately on their arrival in this city.

DALY'S THEATER.

London, Oct. 31.—The corner stone of Augustin Daly's theater was to-day laid by Miss Ada Rehan. Many distinguished American and other literary and dramatic people were present.

A LAND OF PLENTY.

London, Oct. 31.—Calcutta dispatches describe the outlook in the Madras presidency as greatly improved. Abundant rain has relieved the district in which distress was most acute.

DIED AT 75.

Boston, Oct. 31.—Nicholas P. Apollonio, city registrar since 1854, died this morning, aged 75.

WEARY OF HIGH TAXES,

The People's Party Remains in the Contest.

It Will Poll a Heavy Vote in the State.

Chairman Barnes Confidently Expects to See the High Tariff Advocate Go Down to Defeat on Tuesday Next.

Tiffin, O., Oct. 31.—Dr. H. F. Barnes, chairman of people's party state executive committee, is most sanguine of satisfactory results of the election next Tuesday.

He believes that the work of the people's party in the Western Reserve will prove an eye-opener to the politicians of the country, and says that, in his estimation, the falling off of republican votes in that section will determine the result of the gubernatorial election.

The reports he is receiving from the workers in that portion of the state are most flattering.

The local candidates, aided by the speakers furnished by the state committee, have been making a school house campaign and it is certain that the people's party will carry sufficient strength to make McKinley lose several counties in that hitherto republican stronghold.

In northwestern Ohio, especially in Williams and Fulton counties, he says the people's party will receive a heavy vote, and that almost the solid vote of the Patrons of Industry will be cast against the protective idea.

The Patrons of Industry holds the balance of power in both the counties named, and in Williams county alone has a membership of about 2,000. The republican papers have stated that all the speakers for the people's party have left the state, but this is not true. Chairman Barnes says that they are still at work and will work up to Monday night. He confidently expects that McKinley will be defeated.

C., B. & Q. DIVIDENDS.

Boston, Oct. 31.—At the meeting of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad directors no action was taken on the dividend question, nor are they likely to do so for some weeks. It is generally thought the dividend will not be increased the current quarter.

MORE INDICTMENTS.

Philadelphia, Oct. 31.—The grand jury to-day found three bills of indictment against the five suspended mercantile appraisers of this city.

SHOOTING AT FISHERMEN.

Shameful Conduct of British Soldiers.

One Man Killed and Others Have Narrow Escapes Under Fire of Heavy Guns.

London, Oct. 31.—A dispatch has just been received from Plymouth which states that while the gunboat Sabrina was engaged in gun practice to-day, some of her shots struck and immediately sunk the fishing smacks Sunbeach and Aurora, both of which were anchored outside of the breakwater.

One man belonging to the Aurora was drowned, while another was nearly so. Two of the crew of the Sunbeam were almost completely exhausted when they were taken out of the water.

The accident is attributed to the gross negligence of the officers of the gunboat. The admiralty will order an investigation.

FACTORY BURNED.

Bloomfield, Ind., Oct. 31.—Yesterday the business portion of Newberry, 10 miles south of here, together with 10 dwellings, was burned. The fire was the work of an incendiary and originated in a saloon. Estimated loss $50,000, insurance not known.

A SALESMAN'S SHORTAGE.

Brown, the Mansfield Embezzler, $7,000 Short.

Mansfield, Oct. 31.—(Special)—Later developments in the case of Harry W. Brown, traveling salesman for Tracy & Avery, the wholesale grocers of this city, who is short in his account, show that his total embezzlement will amount to something over $7,000 instead of $5,000. Brown's father and father-in-law, of Galion, are making arrangements to raise $5,000 between them, which sum will compel them to sacrifice most of their worldly possessions, while he himself will be expected to make up the balance. In the meantime the culprit has been released pending an adjustment of the matter. The embezzlement, which has only been in progress for 10 weeks, has created a profound sensation here and at Galion.

CLEVELAND ON DECK.

He Takes the Stump in Massachusetts to Help Re-elect Russell.

Boston, Oct. 31.—Ex-President Cleveland has arrived here to help re-elect Gov. Russell, and will be the principal speaker at a monster meeting in Tremont temple to-night.

THE CRISIS OVER.

Chapleau Will Remain in the Cabinet and All Will Be Peace.

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 31.—The cabinet crisis is over. Mr. Chapleau, the secretary of state, will retain his portfolio for the present and receive minor concessions.

MURDER IN A MONASTERY.

Paris, Oct. 31.—News arrived here of a murder in a monastery near Montelimar, department of Drome, by burglars. The dead body of the victim, Father Ildefonsus, was found in his cell in the Cistercian monastery of Aiquebelle, near Montelimar. The burglars, after murdering the monk, robbed and rifled a safe and escaped with their plunder.

JAKE'S ITALIAN HAND

Appears in a Lying Circular Now Being Scattered,

With the Purpose of Injuring Foster Warren, His Democratic Opponent for County Commissioner.

The republican managers seem to be taking to the distribution of circulars in the closing days of the campaign. One of these lying documents was printed in last evening's issue, and another is given to-night, a copy of which is being sent by mail to the voters of Toledo.

Toledo, October 24th, 1891.

To the Electors of Lucas County:

Foster R. Warren, who now seeks to become a commissioner of Lucas county, and is a candidate on the present democratic ticket, was formerly treasurer of Lucas county, Ohio. At the close of his term he brought suit against hundreds of the poor people of Toledo. In many cases the tax claimed to be due was less than $1.00. These suits were never prosecuted, with few exceptions, and yet when the poor man went to pay his tax he had to pay in most cases, $3.50 costs, or more, as costs of the suit started by this friend of the poor (as he now claims to be).

Poor men how do you like him?

ONE OF THEM.

What are the facts?

As is the case with every treasurer, he is made the officer in charge of the collection of taxes, and is compelled under the law to make an honest effort to get the money into the county treasury. When Mr. Warren went out of office, a large amount of taxes were uncollected, and there was only one course to pursue, to place them in the hands of an attorney for collection. This was done, not in a spirit of malice or greed for gain, but as a plain matter of duty.

Another point:

It is remarkable that at the close of Mr. Warren's term a bill was passed in a republican legislature making it the business of the republican prosecuting attorney to do the collecting, and that under his direction and by him were the suits filed. If any poor man, about whom the republican managers are so solicitous just now, suffered in any manner, the republican prosecuting attorney, and not Mr. Warren, was responsible.

It is a mean and detestable way at best to manufacture sentiment, but the explanation given is the truth, while the circular is downright falsehood.

Vote for Foster Warren for county commissioner, whose election means clean business methods by the board or the people will know why such course is not pursued.

THE FLAG OF THE FREE.

It Should Wave Over the Homes of the Brave.

General Grant Reads the Riot Act to Colleges Which Want to Use Foreign Flags.

Washington, Oct. 31.—General Grant, assistant secretary of war, has issued the following letter in regard to the use of any flag, save the United States flag at schools and colleges where an army officer is detailed: "I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter, in which you regret the kind of flag or flags used by the military organization of your college.

"I am directed by the secretary of war to invite your attention to the fact that under the law and by the application of the authorities of your college an officer of the United States army has been detailed as professor of military science and tactics at your institution.

"The authorities of the college have also asked for and received from the national government arms and ammunition for the purpose of military instruction. The secretary of war is of the opinion that the law of congress, and the action of the college authorities in accepting under the law, arms and ammunition and the detail of an army officer for the purpose of military instruction, establishes the national character of the institution.

"Under these facts he considers that the national government has the right to require and should insist that on all occasions when a flag should be required by the United States army tactics or regulations, the flag of the United States be used."

THE TILDEN WILL.

New York, Oct. 31.—George H. Tilden has filed a petition in the Westchester county surrogate's court to compel the executors of the will of Samuel J. Tilden to make an accounting at White Plains on Nov. 11.

CLOAKMAKERS FAIL.

New York, Oct. 31.—Simonson and Weis, one of the largest houses engaged in the manufacture of ladies cloaks, failed to-day. The cause of the failure was the warm weather of September and October. The liabilities of the firm are placed at $180,000.

SEVEN SPEECHES

Was the Work of Gov. Campbell Yesterday.

Fire Alarm Foraker Breaks in on a Meeting

And Gets a Direct Rebuke from the People.

Workingmen Cheer the Democratic Leader.

He Is the Man Who Advocates the Issues that Benefit the Poor—The Elks Give Him a Rousing Greeting in Springfield.

Washington, Oct. 31.—(Special)—When Gov. Campbell's train pulled out of Wilmington yesterday noon it was discovered that ex-Gov. Foraker was aboard. He was on his way to Zanesville to fill an engagement and had an opportunity to see the immense crowds which greeted the governor at all the towns along the route, and these signs did not tend to please him.

At Sabina, a small station between Wilmington and Washington, C. H., over 1,000 people had gathered and the train was stopped in order to give the governor a chance to make a five-minute speech.

Congressman Dean accompanied Foraker, and when Gov. Campbell had finished his speech he jumped down on the station platform and began calling for Foraker. The republicans in the crowd took up the cry, and Foraker, who had evidently inspired the sideshow, appeared on one of the forward platforms of the train and began a speech.

The most of the audience who were dazed by the audacity of the fire alarm statesman gathered about to see him and hear what he had to say. He made a bloody shirt harangue and the crowd made him appear ludicrous by its constant interruptions.

"I am not a part of the Campbell combination," said Foraker.

"No," yelled back an enthusiastic democrat, "the Campbell combination doesn't use forged documents in its campaign."

This set the crowd to cheering and it was some time before the speaker could proceed. He had just recovered from his hard shot and was getting fairly under way again when he asked, "What has the democratic party ever done for this country?"

The answer came like a flash from one of the audience, who yelled at the top of his voice: "Well, it has beat you for governor twice, and that is something."

The crowd roared with laughter and the fire alarm statesman gave up trying to talk and took refuge in the car. The people on the train enjoyed the fun immensely and the general verdict was that he had been served exactly right, as he should not have attempted to break in on a democratic meeting.

When the train reached Washington C. H. the entire populace was at the station to escort the governor to the rink. McKinley speaks here to-day and the republican committee has offered a series of elegant prizes for the largest delegations.

It didn't require any such inducements to attract the people to-day. They turned out to see and hear the democratic standard bearer and it required two separate meetings to enable them all to hear.

The first of these was held in the rink. The governor spoke there for one hour and then addressed an overflow meeting from the steps of the court house. There were fully 5,000 people at each meeting.

The climax of the day's campaigning was reached when the governor reached Springfield. When the train rolled into the station the railroad yards and station were one mass of crowding and crammed humanity. Cannon boomed, innumerable bands played, and the boys with tin horns and other devices for making noise were on all sides.

The procession was one of the largest that ever moved on the streets of Springfield. All the big manufacturing establishments were represented and the Railroad Men's club made a handsome showing with their bright colored lanterns, which they carried in the parade.

Springfield is one of the Ohio cities whose manufactories have not all prospered under the tariff.

The great Whitelaw Reid and other concerns are closed and many workingmen are idle. In the procession there were many former republicans who will cast their first democratic vote on next Tuesday.

It was 9 o'clock when the parade ended and long before this hour the large city hall in which great contentions are held was packed and thousands were unable to obtain admittance.

It was with great difficulty that Gov. Campbell was able to get into the building and make his way to the stage. When the audience caught sight of him it set up a mighty yell and never before in this city was a candidate for any office given such an ovation.

He spoke for an hour and a half, and a few minutes after he began he was able to make himself heard in all parts of the big building.

The governor was in good spirits and made an excellent speech. His arraignment of the republican tariff legislation was most forcible, and as he exposed the formation of trusts and the fostering wings of the McKinley law the audience made the auditorium ring with cheers.

While Gov. Campbell was speaking on the inside of the building Tom John Lentz, Capt. Gilbert Berger and others spoke to an immense crowd on the outside. Later Gov. Campbell went outside and made a short speech to the thousands who waited to catch a glimpse of him.

The governor made seven speeches yesterday and his last one brought his 29th for this week. He is considered in the political history of Ohio a wonder.

He started in with the odds seemingly against him, but his magnificent work has enthused the democrats from Lake Erie to the Ohio river, and as he has driven McKinley from west to east his forces have gathered strength every hour, during the final charge he has driven victorious and enthusiastic democrats at his back.

In this contest Gov. Campbell has more than sustained his reputation as "Fighting Jimmy."

After the meeting Gov. Campbell was the guest of the Springfield lodge of Elks, who gave him an enthusiastic reception. Gov. Campbell is a prominent member of the B. P. O. E., which, properly interpreted, means the most people on earth."

VICTIMS OF THE BEIRNE DISASTER.

Millikin's Bend, La., Oct. 31.—Up to last night nine bodies, victims of the Beirne disaster, were recovered. Their names are: L. F. Davis (colored); Miss Gaywaley; second lather (white); barber (colored); George Washington cabin boy, (colored); George Jones (colored); colored woman, name unknown; T. Williams, (colored), and an unknown man.

CUT TO THE QUICK.

The Workingmen Can No Longer Submit

To Robbery Perpetrated in the Name of Tariff.

How Wages Went Down in the Glass Factories

Immediately After the McKinley Bill Passed

Two Hundred Toilers, Forced to Quit Work, Talk Plainly to Brother Sufferers and Advise Them to Work and Vote for Jimmie Campbell.

Fostoria, Oct. 31.—(Special)—The most lucid and indisputable illustration of the effect of the McKinley tariff upon the wages of the American laborer is that which it has had upon the glass workers of this country. Having heard considerable of the matter, a correspondent set out to get at the bottom of the question. The result of his investigation is embraced in the following conversation had with Messrs. George H. Gray and John W. Fox, by occupation glass mold makers. These gentlemen are now engaged in a small restaurant business in this town located at No. 109 1-2 Main street. Why these gentlemen are not working at their regular occupation at $4 per day will plainly be seen.

Said Mr. Gray: "Yes, sir, I'll tell you all about it. I'll tell the laboring men of this whole country all about it and I only hope to God they will listen to honest, candid facts and that they will not heed the oily words of the tariff demagogues who are speaking all over the state.

"The McKinley tariff has thrown over 200 mold makers engaged in the glass works of this country out of employment. Myself and Mr. Fox here are two of that number. How it happened I'll tell you.

About six months previous to the introduction of the McKinley bill the glass companies sent out circulars to their employes in which they begged them to sign a petition for a higher tariff on glass, as it would increase their wages and give them steadier employment.

"Well, with such tempting promises put forth every man engaged in the business signed the petition. The tariff was raised, the profits of the manufacturers were increased, but how in God's name was the promise of the manufacturer kept, do you suppose?

"Why, before high heaven, I swear that it was not eight weeks after the passage of the McKinley bill that one fine morning we mold makers were told that we were no longer needed and in one batch 200 men were thrown out of employment and their wives and children left in want.

"I am well known here and in the American Flint Glass Workers' union, of which I am treasurer, and I defy any living man to truthfully contradict the honest facts which I have stated.

"I was formerly engaged in the Nickelplate Glass works here, which is now known as factory 'N' of the United States glass trust.

"Let me tell you another thing. Myself and Mr. Fox here have always been republicans, but do you suppose that we are going to support McKinley and his labor-crushing bill?

"No, sir; never!

"We are going to vote the straight democratic ticket from bottom to top. We're not the only ones, either. Every glass worker in the state of Ohio is going to do the same thing.

"They've hoodwinked and blindfolded us just as long as they can. Every man can now vote as he pleases and the time for laws only in favor of the monopolist is passed."

These gentlemen, Gray and Fox, are very well educated men and they have done gigantic work in enlightening their associates in the little game of confidence being worked by McKinley and his gang.

A CAREER OF CRIME

Which May Well Startle the Most Vicious.

Thomas A. Williamson Makes a Confession.

A Murderer at Heart, He Killed People and Disposed of Them as Though They Were Wild Animals of the Woods.

Sedalia, Mo., Oct. 31.—Thomas A. Williamson was executed here to-day. Before his death he made a confession that places him in the front rank with with the most noted criminals of the age.

Thomas Williamson was born in Tazewell county, Illinois, April 23, 1834. He was a thief from childhood, his first recollection being stealing a quantity of tobacco when he was only 10 years old. His first grave crime he committed in 1860, when he stole a horse from a neighbor near his home in Illinois. He was arrested and admitted to bail in the sum of $500. He jumped his bond, in the following year, 1861, he enlisted in the One Hundredth and Eighth Illinois Infantry. He served three years and returned to his old home in Tazewell county.

In August, 1866, he, with a cousin named Harkett, was arrested for the murder of an old German farmer named August Koch. Harkett turned state's evidence and saved himself. Williamson was sentenced to be hanged and the date of the execution was fixed, but owing to the efforts of his attorney, B. S. Pettyman, Governor Oglesby commuted the sentence to twenty years in the penitentiary. He served eleven years and three months, and was released. He returned home and went to work as a farm hand, but one year after his release he was behind the bars at Joliet again, this time for grand larceny. One day he drove a small herd of cattle belonging to a neighbor into Decatur and sold them. He got a sentence of three years for this crime and served twenty-seven months, when he was set at liberty.

Williamson then went to Xenia, Kan., where his brother resides. The next seven years of his life he spent in tramping over Kansas and Missouri. It was one round of petty thieving and villany. For none of his acts during this period was he apprehended, however. Near Nevada in 1887, Williamson was married to Miss Hannah Jones. He came to Sedalia then and rented a small farm three miles west of this city on Muddy creek. One day in the summer of 1889 his wife disappeared. He gave it out to the neighbors that she had gone to visit relatives in an adjoining county, but in his confession he thus speaks of her taking off:

"My wife was taken suddenly with colic, and in one hour was dead, before I could summon assistance. Being too poor to pay the burial expenses I dug a grave and buried her myself, near the house where we lived."

The Moore Murder.

After his wife's death Williamson came to this city, where he became a member of the Salvation Army. Here he met Jefferson and Thomas Moore, father and son, for whose killing he is to be executed. Of these murders his confession thus speaks:

"I was engaged to the eldest daughter of John Anamosa, who lived near the Moores. He told me if he could get old man Moore out of the way he could get deeds to all his property, and he would turn it over to me when I married his daughter. Charlie Moore, Anamosa and myself were out in the field at work one day, when Charlie Moore asked Anamosa for his daughter. He refused and they began to quarrel. Moore started at Anamosa with an ax. Anamosa took it from him and Moore turned to run. Anamosa hurled it at him, striking him in the back of the head and killing him. He then told me if I did not help him bury the body he would kill me also. He went to the house and got a horse and plow and commenced ploughing a trench, he holding the plow and I leading the horse. We covered the body as good as possible and harrowed the surface. Mr. Anamosa then brought some watermelon seeds and planted six hills over the place. He then told me to go to the house, and if Mr. Moore asked for Charlie to tell him that he had gone to town to get married and would not be back for a week. I went over to the house and told old man Moore as directed. He then became very angry and threw a stick of stove-wood at me, and not being satisfied with that he threw a flat-iron at me, which struck me in the back of the head and knocked me on to the stove. I was made senseless, and when I came to he was standing over me, snapping a revolver at me. I went out on the porch and got an axe and, returning, hit him on the side of the head with it and another blow on the forehead, which killed him. I then took the body into the cellar and covered it over with a wagon-load of earth. Mr. Anamosa, during this proceeding, stood watch."

Caught and Convicted.

After the killing Williamson came to town, and the following day, May 26, 1890, when the murdered men were discovered, he attempted suicide by taking a dose of strychnine. His life was saved and he was arrested. At that time he implicated Mr. Anamosa, a respectable farmer, in the crime, but no credence whatever was given the story.

When arrested a search was instituted and the body of Williamson's wife was discovered with the skull crushed in, buried twenty inches beneath the surface of the earth in front of the door of the lonely cabin on Muddy creek, where the couple had dwelt. The story of the trial, conviction and efforts to save the life of Williamson has already been published.

WITCHES NIGHT.

"All Hallow e'en" Gaily and Appropriately Observed.

Jolly Evening Spent by the Young People of Several Churches in an Old Fashioned Way.

"All Hallow e'en" was observed in a delightful and appropriate manner by the young folks of several church societies at different places. It was witches' night, and the weird creatures of other days held full sway. The result was much merriment and fun for those who participated in the quaint observance.

The Young People's association of the Ashland Avenue Baptist church and their friends to the number of about 100 gathered at the residence of the pastor, Rev. E. W. Hunt, on Irving street, and spent an evening long to be remembered. The house was uniquely decorated with pumpkin lanterns, strings of seeds, cabbages and potatoes. As each guest arrived he was unceremoniously taken in hand by the witches' band and ushered into the house by many rough paths and devious winding, the victim at last finding himself in the cloakroom up stairs. The young people arrived early and the fun waxed fast and furious. Everybody was obliged to visit the witches' den, where were observed all the horrid and blood-curdling rites of the dark ages, after which those who survived had their fortune told and were obliged to wear a black cap on which a skull and cross bones was painted as an insignia of their allegiance to the devotees of the black art.

All sorts of old-fashioned games were played, and the climax was reached when refreshments were served. The dining room was entirely illuminated with pumpkin lanterns and candles stuck in cabbages and potatoes, and the table center piece was a pile of vegetables. The refreshments consisted of coffee and doughnuts, apples served in a big tin pan, and the feast was closed by a dip into a big pumpkin finger bowl. The social was a most decided success, and reflected much credit on the social committee of which Mrs. Judd Richardson is chairman.

At the First Baptist.

The young people of the First Baptist church held a like observance in the church parlors, which were illuminated with the ghastly, grinning pumpkin lanterns, and here the guests were obliged to pass the ordeal of the witches, who were dressed in most fantastic costumes, but were anything but old and ugly. The young men were given a glance into the future, and if half of the fortunes that were told come true a happy life is before most of them. The games of our forefathers were played with great gusto. The young people of this church are always at the front in social entertainment, and last evening was no exception.

At the First Presbyterian.

The ladies of the First Presbyterian church last evening gave their first supper and social of the season, and though the attendance was not large, those who were present spent a most delightful evening. The supper was elegantly served, and the remainder of the evening was occupied with delightful music and jolly games.

CHILI IS STILL DEFIANT.

The Junta Does Not Seem to be Alarmed.

The Local Papers at Valparaiso Do Not Think the Affair of Enough Importance to Give It Prominence.

New York, Oct. 31.—The Herald's dispatches from Santiago this morning say the Chilian authorities show no disposition to recede from the defiant attitude which they assumed in the answer to the communication from the United States in regard to the assault on members of the Baltimore's crew.

Pedro Montt, the representative of the provisional government at Washington, sent a dispatch yesterday urging the junta to adopt a conciliatory policy and to move with great caution, but his advice has apparently had no effect.

While the American and other foreign residents fully realize the gravity of the situation and are fearful of the future, perhaps graver complications, the Chilian public appear to have no conception of it. Beyond the meager facts which have been published in the local papers, they are as a rule ignorant of what has occurred.

THE NEWS FROM CHILI.

Uncle Sam Will Not Fight for a Day or Two.

Mr. Blaine Not so Warlike as Reported.

He Will Wait Until He Finds Out How Much at Fault Egan Is Before He Forces an International Investigation.

New York, Oct. 31.—According to a Washington dispatch the course urged by the more moderate members of the cabinet yesterday was to take no decisive action until the permanent government, which has just been chosen in Chili, should take the place of the present provisional government.

The cabinet meeting last week and the meetings held since, at which the subject has been discussed, decided that Chili should be allowed a reasonable time to investigate the bloody work in the streets of Valparaiso and tender reparation for it. This purpose was not changed in spite of the unsatisfactory nature of the assurances given by Senor Montt in his interview with Secretary Blaine yesterday, and the impertinent reply given by the Chilian foreign office to Minister Egan yesterday.

A reasonable time will be allowed for inquiry and there is the special reason for waiting that the change of government is about to take place. It will be more satisfactory in every way to deal with a government which is permanent and which represents the suffrages of the people of Chili than with one which is merely provisional and represents only the accidents of civil war. The change of government need not, however, delay the prosecution of inquiry into the outrage upon our sailors through the regular judicial channels, and about the time that the new ministry of foreign affairs in Chili is fairly in working order it will find a very emphatic demand from the United States before it to furnish satisfaction for one of the most brutal and cowardly attacks ever made upon any American representatives abroad.

If the demand is not promptly met by a suitable apology, the punishment of the criminals and an indemnity in money American vessels will be sent to concentrate on the Chilian coasts and every preparation will be made for the bombardment of Valparaiso if such a course be deemed necessary. The president and Secretary Blaine are very much in earnest in the feeling that we should allow no trifling in so serious a matter and that we should not allow it to appear that we are indifferent to such sufferings which have been inflicted on the families of our sailors by their causeless murder nor to the dignity of our uniform by the outrage put upon it.

The Chilians believe that the English would come to their assistance in order to protect the nitrate beds, in which English capital is heavily interested. They apparently imagine that the opening of American guns on the defenses of Valparaiso would be the signal for a counterfire from English iron-clads. The extent to which this idea has taken possession of the Chilians is shown by a recent episode at Santiago, the inland capitol of the country. Some leading Chilians arranged a dinner party at the capitol and carried the English officers up there on a special train. In the course of the meal, after the Chilians had been warmed to the fighting point one of them proposed a toast couched in the most slurring language toward the United States. It was so insolent in tone that the English officers flatly refused to drink it, but their courtesy does not seem to have undeceived the Chilians in the fatuous hope that they would have English guns behind them if they see fit to insult the United States. They are evidently counting upon some such support in their bravado, and it is this which has led them to reply to Minister Egan in a tone which one of the cabinet tersely summed up today when asked what interpretation he put on it by saying: "It simply means that we may go to the devil."

THE BRASSWORKERS.

Their International Organization Rapidly Extending—The Toledo Union.

A Bee last night had a pleasant talk with C. C. McGlogan, of Detroit, organizer of unions in the brassworkers trade, who was paying a flying visit to Toledo. This organization is still young, but is making rapid growth, having now 23 unions in the United States and Canada. Headquarters are in Detroit, where the official organ of the trade is published, the Brassworkers' Journal, of which Mr. McGlogan is editor. He also fills the office of secretary and treasurer. Other general officers are: President, Theo. H. Sucher, New Haven, Ct.; vice-president, Fred A. Bauer, Pittsburg, Pa.

Mr. McGlogan has been organizing in Kansas, and will soon go east where the most of the skilled workmen of this trade are employed. There are some 25,000 waiting to be organized. His long experience in labor organizations, and the knowledge he acquired of the craft in foreign countries while he was abroad as a member of the Scripps league, have given him every qualification for his work.

Union No. 20 of the Brassworkers is located in Toledo, and is in very prosperous condition. Its president is Wm. Lindley; secretary, Jos. F. Kennan. The union sends delegates to the Central Labor union. The international association is not attached to the Knights of Labor nor to the Federation of Trades, but plays a lone hand.

It is said that fully 25,000 deaths occurred in one of the recent epidemics of small-pox in Guatemala, but notwithstanding this frightful mortality and the freqiency of small-pox scourges, the government has taken no pains to introduce any scheme of vaccination.

MOST PEOPLE

Know only a comparatively few things thoroughly—all else is more or less uncertain.

Take your own case. What do you know about CARPETS, for instance? Are you competent to detect poor materials, or imperfect weaving, or unreliable colorings, or old-style patterns?

No.

Then will it not be wisdom on your part to make your purchases of CARPETS where all these points are taken care of in your interest, and where you are protected, not only from direct misrepresentation, but from the results of your own inexperience?

That seems plain enough.

Just two things we promise every customer. They are these:

That every salesman shall tell the whole truth about every piece of goods offered for sale; that anything which proves imperfect, through the appearance of any hidden defect subsequent to purchase, shall be made right.

The name of our firm stands behind these two guarantees.

Very likely you are thinking of purchasing one or more CARPETS shortly. If so, consider what we have said.

THREE THOUSAND KILLED

Reports of a Terrible Earthquake in Japan.

Wagon Roads Blocked by Massive Rocks.

Full Details of the Affair Cannot Be Learned Owing to the Demoralized Condition of the Telegraph Lines.

London, Oct. 31.—Advices just received from Hiogo, Japan, report a terrible earthquake as having on Wednesday last destroyed the towns of Nagoya, Gifu and Ojaki. All the public buildings and most of the smaller structures in those places were thrown down.

In Nagoya, one of the finest cities of the empire, fire broke out and completed the work of destruction. It is estimated that not less than three thousand human beings lost their lives. In the vicinity of Hiogo many vessels are reported wrecked.

During the seismic disturbance the waters of the lakes in the surrounding country were violently agitated.

Few portions of Niphon Island escaped the effects of the earthquake, but the town of Kobe suffered comparatively little damage.

The various wagon roads are blockaded by immense heaps of debris, and railroad traffic is entirely suspended.

Owing to the complete prostration of the telegraph lines full details of this terrible calamity cannot yet be ascertained.

THEY DANCED ALL NIGHT

Till Broad Day Light, and Went Home with the Girls in the Morning.

The United Commercial Travelers gave their opening party at Odd Fellows' temple last night, and it was a success in every particular.

Such events under the auspices of this organization are always looked forward to with anticipations of great pleasure, and no one is disappointed. The boys take excellent care of their guests, and there is always amusement for all.

Over forty couples were present last evening, and participated in the sociabilities of the occasion, consisting of dancing, cards and a general good time. Leon's full orchestra was in attendance and rendered its sweetest music. The evening was devoted wholly to pleasure and the strengthening of the ties that enfold the members in fraternal friendship.

The dancing committee was composed of A. K. Hoff, F. W. Brooks, J. H. Hildebrand and H. E. Schloss. The floor manager was A. K. Hoff, and D. J. Caine attendant at the door.

THE ROLLING MILL PEOPLE

Secure a Temporary Restraining Order

From Judge Harmon, Which Prevents the City Natural Gas Trustees from Shutting Off the Supply on Monday.

In common pleas court to-day the Maumee rolling mills filed a petition praying for an injunction restraining the natural gas trustees from shutting off the gas used as fuel at the mills in East Toledo.

The petition sets forth a contract entered into by the gas trustees whereby they agree to furnish natural gas to the Maumee rolling mills for the period of one year from August 1, 1891, in consideration for which the plaintiffs agree to pay an amount for.

The petition avers that the gas trustees, in accordance with the terms of the contract, made the necessary connections and is now supplying the mills with gas, but that the gas trustees are about to and will, unless restrained by the court, undertake to cancel and violate its contract and shut off the natural gas from the rolling mills and discontinue the same, and that on October 24 notified the plaintiff of its intention to take such steps on November 1, 1891.

The petition further states that the supply has been and is now sufficient for all purposes of the contract, and the trustees are without reasonable excuse for violating the contract.

That the furnaces of the mills are adapted to the use of natural gas for fuel and could not be changed, and that if the trustees withdraw the supply it will be impossible to procure fuel from any other quarter.

Further, that the use of natural gas as fuel imparts a superior quality to the finished iron and steel manufactured by its use that cannot be obtained by the use of any other fuel. That the diminution in the value of iron and steel manufactured by the plaintiff and sent out to its customers in different parts of the country by the use of natural gas, if it were manufactured by the use of coal or other ordinary fuel, could not possibly be estimated.

The petition in conclusion alleges that since the contract was entered into with the city the plaintiff, believing the trustees would in good faith carry out the terms of the contract, entered into contract with various persons and corporations to furnish finished iron and steel to the value of more than $100,000, and has purchased for this purpose $100,000 worth of raw material. But if the natural gas is withdrawn it will be impossible to furnish the finished iron and steel of the quality agreed upon in the contract.

Judge Harmon granted a temporary injunction and fixed the bond at $1,000.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

THE PARK QUESTION.

To the Editor: It is a most important stand which many of Toledo's large taxpayers have taken in their position that a beginning be made in Toledo in the way of parks, as it will prove a great benefit to our city and to the great majority of the citizens.

Public parks and grounds for games and general outdoor recreation have proved a great success elsewhere, and all of our people who work hard for a living and whose only capital is the maintenance of their health and strength have indeed a vital interest in this matter.

Almost everybody has been over to Detroit and up to Belle Isle Park, the first thing usually. Are Detroit people any better entitled to such a pleasure place than we? No, they are surely not.

All great health resorts depend almost entirely on outdoor life, there insisted upon for the actual building up of exhausted strength.

A Toledoan who had been broken down from overwork but returned from a well-known sanitarium, much built up in vigor, in reply to a question as to how it was done, said: "It was the life in the open air which did it." In Toledo as elsewhere our wealthier people have their fine homes and park-like grounds, their Collingwood and Madison avenues, and in the possession of these things the writer has many times envied them greatly; who has not? A very general demand has now come from all classes that these privileges be extended to all, and the question is now entirely in the hands of our people to decide the matter for ourselves. It is to be earnestly hoped that one and all will remember to put their cross before "Yes" on this question and thus secure what we have so long waited for. . . .

HURD PREDICTS VICTORY.

Campbell Will Be Elected by a Handsome Majority.

Hon. Frank H. Hurd is confident of a victory for the entire democratic ticket in the state.

Talking with a Bee this morning he said:

"I believe Governor Campbell will be re-elected. The indications throughout the state point to a sweeping democratic victory. The people are thoroughly aroused, and the great campaign of education will result in the election of Governor Campbell."

RATHER FROSTY.

Major McKinley's Followers Are Losing Their Grip.

Wapakoneta, O., Oct. 31.—(Special)—Major McKinley spoke at St. Marys yesterday afternoon and came to this city in the evening, en route for Sidney. He was entertained by George R. Davis, a leading attorney here. At 6:30 a fair sized audience had gathered at the Davis residence, drummed up by a band, and the Major spoke to them for half an hour on the silver question and the beauties of home life. He was driven to the depot in a barouche behind the band, and a few stragglers followed him to see him off. For a gubernatorial candidate with the reputation McKinley has, it was a decidedly frosty reception.

CLUB AND SOCIAL.

The New Century Club Discusses the Question of Taxation.

Interesting Meeting of the Ys—Humane Society Meeting Postponed—The Meetings for the First Week of November.

Mrs. F. D. Jermain entertained the New Century club last evening, at her pretty home, 1943 Summit street. There was a good attendance and all present were interested in the bright and thoughtful paper of the evening. In the absence of the president, Rev. A. G. Jennings presided, and the discussion upon the paper was participated in by nearly every one present.

Under the title "Taxation, Its Wrongs and Remedies," Mrs. Segur presented a brief history of taxation from the time of primitive social conditions and pointed out wrongs and inequalities. The equal taxation of all real and personal property, trusts, corporations and monopolies was advocated. Exemption from taxation of church property, private hospitals, private and parochial schools was condemned as a grievous public wrong and injustice. Taxation without representation, depriving women citizens of the right of the franchise which the pauper supported by the taxes paid by women enjoys, was dwelt upon in all its phases and an agitation recommended to bring about reform.

The next meeting, Friday evening, November 13, will be with Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Tillinghast. Paper by Mrs. F. D. Jermain, subject to be announced.

The Y Meeting.

The Ys met at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the First Congregational church parlors, with a good attendance. The health superintendent, Miss Cora Orwig, gave an interesting talk on "Beverages," and several papers were read in regard to their use.

It was decided to give a Calendar Carnival December 4 and 5, at Memorial hall, and the following chairmen of booths were elected: January—Julia Layng and Lilian Goldsmith; February—Florence Burgett and Pearl Keen; March—Lettie Churchhill and Jessie Thurston; April—Perla Bowman and Kate Gloyd; May—Winnie Schlingman and Alice Dority; June—Louise Bond; July—Mrs. L. L. Barber and Grace Reasener; August—Edith Hubbard, Clara Heston and Lizzie Harris; September—Kate Craig, Bessie Cairn, Kate Keynon and Jessie Hunter; December—Mattie Tracy and Lizzie Paddock.

A parlor meeting of the Ys will be held with Miss Lettie Churchhill next Friday afternoon. The next regular meeting will be held the afternoon following Thanksgiving. A petition praying that the world's fair may be closed on Sundays will be forwarded to the board of commissioners from the Ys.

The Humane society will not meet next Tuesday evening, as the election excitement would prevent the necessary full attendance. The meeting is postponed one week, to Tuesday evening, November 10.

The Suffrage society meets at the usual place, room 9 Fort Industry block, Wednesday afternoon next, at 3 o'clock. Members are urged to be present and to bring their friends, as many matters of moment in connection with the woman suffrage movement are to come before the meeting.

The Colloquial club will hold its regular fortnightly meeting next Friday afternoon, in the Law kindergarten rooms, beginning at 4 o'clock sharp. The meeting will be lead by Mrs. Mary J. Cravens, with a paper on "Discipline."

The preparations for the Dairymaids' Festival, under the leadership of Mrs. E. R. Wheeler, are progressing finely. This week Mrs. Dan Segur, jr., has been successful in securing advertisements to surround the program, the enterprise being everywhere kindly received by business men. The festival occurs at Pythian castle, evening of November 20, and will begin with the serving of a supper. This will be followed by the Dairymaids' drill, for which Mrs. Wheeler is training 36 little girls. After this and other exercises of a similar character, the evening's program will be concluded with a dance.

Shakesperian studies are very popular this season among our literary people, the majority of whom witnessed the representation of "Cymbeline" and "As You Like It" the past week, and now look forward with anticipation of great pleasure to the forthcoming lecture by Dr. Chas. Cravens on "Hamlet."

The weekly session of the Young Women's Christian association was held in the First Presbyterian church yesterday afternoon with a good attendance. The meeting was an interesting one, though devoted to routine business only.

The Union of Unions, central body of the W. C. T. U. of Toledo, meets next Thursday afternoon at the Second Congregational church, East Side. At this meeting reports will be received upon the entertainment of the state W. C. T. U. convention. This will be the last meeting of the Union of Unions before the world's convention, which is held in Boston next month, and to which Mesdames Frances J. Sumner and Louise Eck are delegates.

TO GO TO CHILI.

New York, Oct. 31.—A special to the Herald from Washington says it is now positively known that the cruiser Newark is booked for Chilian waters. There have also been developments which indicate that the Philadelphia and Atlanta will also leave for Chili as soon as practicable. This will make seven vessels for Chilian service.

Deserving Confidence.—There is no article which so richly deserves the entire confidence of the community as Brown's Bronchial Troches. Those suffering from asthmatic and bronchial diseases, coughs and colds, should try them. Price 25 cents.

TOYED WITH KEROSENE.

An Aged Woman Burned to Death in Akron.

Akron, Oct. 31.—Mrs. James Harbin, of East Thornton street, was trying to make a bonfire burn more brightly by pouring coal oil on it and her dress caught fire.

With great presence of mind she laid down and rolled on the ground in an effort to put out the flames, but in vain. Screaming for help she ran to a neighbor's house and fell fainting near the door, nearly all of her clothing being burned off.

She was taken home but physicians pronounced her case hopeless. She died after a night of most intense agony. Mrs. Harbin was 60 years old.

CONTEMPT OF COURT,

A Somewhat Sensational Case in Police Court.

Captain John O'Connor's Charged with Contempt of Court for Interfering with Justice.

The case against Henry Getterman, mate of the schooner Penokee, charged with shooting with intent to kill one James Nichol, a sailor, was heard in police court yesterday afternoon and this morning. The evidence showed that Getterman used his revolver in protecting the property of his vessel and he was therefore discharged.

This case has excited much interest, especially among those interested in vessel property and marine, as it was the outcome of the fight between union and non-union sailors. Getterman shot Nichol one night last summer while the latter was leaving the schooner in company with some union sailors who had induced him to desert. The party were leaving in the yawl belonging to the Penokee and the mate fired upon them to make them return the boat. The case has been continued from one time to another for the reason that the Penokee was cruising about the lakes and did not return with the mate.

In the meantime, however, further developments came up of a rather sensational nature, the end of which is not yet.

Nichol, the wounded sailor, was held here as a witness, and after a short confinement he was taken to the infirmary. One day he turned up missing, and it was found that he had been taken away from the infirmary by parties who claimed to have authority to take him to the marine hospital. He was not taken there, but had left the city. It was found afterwards that Nichol was in Cleveland and he was brought back here.

After the trial this morning Judge Sala questioned Nichol as to his leaving the city, and he stated that he had been taken out of the infirmary by Captain John O'Connors, shipping master of the Cleveland Vessel Owners' association, who took him to the depot, bought him a ticket for Cleveland and sent him away.

Judge Sala was very indignant at this interference with justice, and at once issued a bench warrant for O'Connors to appear and show why he should not be fined for contempt of court.

This warrant was placed in the hands of an officer, who found that the captain was serving on a jury in common pleas court. For this reason he did not arrest O'Connors.

When police court was over Prosecutor Wheeler made out an affidavit in proper form and a regular warrant was issued for O'Connors' arrest, and the matter will be disposed of in police court Monday morning.

Chief O'Dwyer, Judge Sala and other officials of the court are very much aroused over this case, and claim that some punishment should be meted out in order to protect the police department and court. In the meantime Nichol is still held as a witness.

18 POUNDS OF BLOOD.

Is about the quantity nature allows to an adult person. It is of the utmost importance that the blood should be kept as pure as possible. By its remarkable cures of scrofula, salt rheum, etc., Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven its claim to be the best blood purifier.

For a general family cathartic we confidently recommend Hood's Pills. They should be in every home medicine chest.

THE CORNER-STONE LAID.

This morning the corner-stone was laid for the seven-story office building now being erected by Mr. Horace Walbridge on Huron street, near Madison. The well-known contractor, Albert Nonkom, supervised the event, which is in itself a sufficient guarantee that it was laid right. The front will be composed for a few stories of some of the heaviest stones which have been put up in Toledo, and will be an ornament to the future Great. A copy of the Bee found a place in the stone.

DEPUTY COUNCILLOR CLARK.

Mr. J. P. Van Nest of Wooster, Ohio, has been in the city during the week in the interest of the Order of Chosen Friends, of which there are between three and four hundred in Toledo. After looking over the field, Mr. Van Nest appointed Mr. Harry Clark, of Maumee Valley Council, No. 18, as District Deputy Supreme Councillor, and he could not have made a better selection, as Mr. Clark is an enthusiastic and willing worker for any cause which he undertakes. Mr. Clark will extend the order if any one can.

THE SEEBOECK CONCERT.

A fashionable and enthusiastic audience listened to "harmony divine" last evening at Whitney and Currier's music hall. The program arranged was very difficult but admirably executed. Mr. Seeboeck and Miss Clouse opened and closed the program by playing Concerto C minor, Beethoven, and Fantaisie Horgroise, Liszt. Miss Clouse is always a favorite with the public, and Mr. Seeboeck has made many friends in this city who will always welcome him to Toledo. Mrs. Seeboeck is a prime favorite and her voice is superb. A brilliant future is predicted for her.

EAST SIDE TEACHERS' MEETING.

The teachers' meeting called for East Toledo last evening was not as successful as expected. However, the class will undoubtedly grow. The following note to the Bee from the secretary will explain itself:

"It would perhaps be interesting to many to know that the Sabbath School teachers' meeting announced to be at the Young Men's Christian Association, East Toledo, for last evening, was not a total failure, even if there were only four there, namely, an earnest Christian woman and three Christian men, also the secretary. The weaker of the four, in sex and name only, having come a mile or more, leaving the cares of a family. Let this be a gentle rebuke to others and inspire them to a better attendance in the future.

TWO PEOPLE IN LUCK.

Mrs. Ernst, One of Our City's Most Cultured Ladies, is in Luck Because She Has Secured the Best Paying Position in the City---One Hundred and Twenty-Five Dollars Per Month, Fifteen Hundred Per Year.

Mrs. Ernst is certainly the best linguist in Toledo. She speaks five languages properly and fluently, and can make herself understood in three other languages, all of which makes her very valuable to any business as an interpreter, especially in this city, as almost every language in the world is represented here. There are hundreds of Germans, French, Hungarians, Swedes, Italians and Polish people that can converse only in their native tongue. All such appreciate meeting a lady of Mrs. Ernst's capabilities. Mrs. Ernst is not only accomplished in languages, but is also highly educated in music, both instrumental and vocal. She plays the most difficult foreign and American music and sings in a manner sure to charm all lovers of good music. Mrs. Ernst is surely very fortunate to be the possessor of so many valuable qualities, and Dr. Bigelow, Toledo's most popular dentist, is lucky to secure such a pleasing factor to his business. The Doctor has an eye to business in securing an entertainer for his patients. His reception rooms are always crowded, and many have to wait for hours before they can be waited upon. To such a little good music will break the monotony, and make them forget their troubles. The Doctor is progressive in every sense of the word. He cares nothing for the opinion of the profession, but caters first and last to the wants of the public that swells his bank account (not dentists.) Dental ethics never paid anybody's rent or furnished them with the smallest quantity of the luxuries of life, and Dr. Bigelow knows it as the old lady knew she had religion (by blessed experience), for he bursted up high and dry on that line some years ago. Since that he shuns professionalism as he would a pestilence (there is nothing in it). Look at the Doctor and his fine business to-day. He supports an expense of over $10,000 a year with perfect ease, and as to popularity, there is none more so with the general public. His popularity is due to courtesy shown his patients, strict attention to business and reasonable prices for first-class work. Six of the Doctor's eleven assistants are graduates of standard dental schools, and there is no better talent in Toledo. The Doctor's mechanical dentists, five in number, do a class of work unexcelled. Miss Crissey, the Doctor's corresponding secretary, is a very pleasant and talented little lady, and with Mrs. Ernst installed as linguist, musician and general entertainer, combined with the Doctor's elegant quarters, the Oriental Dental Parlors will richly merit the patronage of the best people of the city. Every one should remember that Dr. Bigelow is a specialist, and does business on that plan he selects more especially adopted for special branches of dentistry, and by this means he is able to please all his patients. He also has special days that he devotes to special work, and by so doing he is able to handle and please different people desiring different kinds of work, and prevents tedious delays that would otherwise occur. To sellays that would otherwise occur. To selays that would otherwise occur. To selays that would otherwise occur. To sel

For Infirmary Director—WILLARD VAN WORMER.

Secret society politics should be struck a vigorous blow at the polls next Tuesday.

Now vote for Harry Dowling for sheriff and put the seal of condemnation upon oath-bound politics.

Campbell has made over 100 speeches this campaign; McKinley has made one speech a hundred times. Newspaper reports show this.

Thousands of tax payers are opposed to the loose methods of the county commissioners' office, and all such should vote against Jacob Engelhardt and for Foster Warren.

The democrats of Wood county have made a masterly campaign and the prospects of electing a part of their ticket are excellent. They are a valiant band of workers, and deserve success.

The republicans of Lucas county are desperate when they have to resort to lying circulars. The campaign which promised to be clean has been dirtied by the republican managers in Toledo.

Good words are heard on every hand for Mr. Jacob Mandler, the democratic candidate for treasurer. He has conducted a dignified canvass that commends him to the tax payers of Lucas county.

Harry Dowling is a popular young man and deserves an extra large vote because of the mean crusade that is being made against him. He should be elected sheriff as a fitting rebuke to darklantern politics.

If Senator Quay is going into the libel suit business he will be obliged to take in all the democratic newspapers in the country and half the republican. Perhaps he has struck a regular bonanza—better than a pull on a state treasury.

John B. Stuart says he had nothing to do with the circular issued by the dark lantern proscriptionists. As Mr. Stuart is one of the dark lantern chaps we do not see how his denial successfully denies. He is their candidate and he is running upon their platform of ostracism.

Mr. John S. Durham is our new minister to Hayti. He has arrived there, has met Hippolyte, who hoped and trusted, etc., in his welcoming speech. And now let us hope that Minister Durham will not attempt to run the island and will remember that he is sent there to represent the United States government.

It was Robert Ingersoll who said (lauding the McKinley law) "make it strong enough to shut out all foreign goods; we can make everything we want ourselves in this blessed country." What does Bob think now when he hears the boast that the "prohibitive" law has increased importation? He isn't speechifying any more.

A fac simile of the democratic ticket is printed at the head of this paper. Now, when you go to the polls look for the column on your ballot that corresponds with this ticket. Then put an X mark in the space just at the left of the words "Democratic Ticket." That will be a straight democratic vote. That's the way to vote this year.

Thomas Nast is on deck again with his running hand. In yesterday's New York World he portrays a Dudley, Quay and Platt elephant with the white house on its back and the Harrison hand has hold of an electric wire hitched to the animal's trunk and tail and "Beware of the tiger" is the message. Meanwhile the elephant has his big foot on the statue of liberty overthrown and his fore feet are crushing New York. The motif is the old cry of "stop thief" put into telling shape for present day application.

All the tin made in this country must compete with the foreign product under the old tariff so long as the enormous quantities rushed into the country ahead of the McKinley law shall hold out. If the industry booms according to republican reports, what need of the added tax? And with tin ore free and the price of tin wares not advanced, (as republican theorists tell us) how is the home interest subserved and out of whose pockets, and into whose pockets goes the tax money?

The circular which was distributed yesterday by the friends of John B. Stuart was known in the Blade office a week ago, and that paper prepared a lot of stuff which it intended to print last night, accusing Harry Dowling of issuing the circular. The stuff was in type and publication was stopped because after consulting an attorney Mr. Locke feared a suit for damages. The disreputable business was kept out not because the Blade was not disposed to print the lie, but because of fear of its own safety. That's the kind of disreputable politics the whole crowd has turned against that excellent young citizen Harry Dowling, whose only offense is that he is the democratic candidate for sheriff. Citizens should rebuke such politics by voting for him.

The republican committee has issued a lot of circulars appealing to the soldiers to vote for republican candidates next Tuesday.

Now, if it is the soldier record these republicans want, why not vote for Campbell who made a good record during the war?

And here at home, there is John Ryan, he was a gallant soldier; and John Canary, he was at the front. On the contrary the republican candidate Rorick was piling up money during the war to enable him to plaster mortgages on the farms of northwestern Ohio.

A soldier record, yes, the democratic candidates have a record.

Congressman McMillan is doing some very good talking in Massachusetts. He takes figures from the tenth census because those involved in his comparisons are not yet tabulated for the eleventh, and illustrates how the tariff is solely for the benefit of labor! He quotes, from republican statistics: The estimated worth of the products of the United States were $63,000,000; the labor cost was $6,000,000; labor percentage 21-2 per cent. of the whole cost. To protect this 2 1-2 per cent. of labor a tax of 60 per cent. is levied! What becomes of the difference? What need of this extravagant surplus? Who gets the loaf while labor gets the crumbs? A strong illustration under this head is the wool hats industry. In 1880 there were produced in the United States $8,510,000 worth of wool hats, the labor cost on which was $1,893,000. The McKinley law raised the tariff from 18 to 111 per cent. Simply the increase was nearly as much again as the cost of labor. Following up these ratios: on a class of manufactured worsteds there is a tax of $103 on every $100 worth of goods to protect $16 worth of labor! Except the republican figures are all and entirely wrong, there is no gainsaying these conclusions. The deductions from them are logical and according to correct arithmetical calculation. Was ever a greater robbery perpetrated in the name of "benefit to labor?"

DISREPUTABLE POLITICS.

The Bee's exposure of the un-American methods of a dark-lantern party in Toledo to encompass the defeat of Harry Dowling was the subject of discussion last night. No more unholy, un-Christian, un-American organization was ever devised in this country than this same society called the American Protective Association, which is said to have four branch councils in Toledo. The single and only object of the society is the ostracism of the Catholic religionists. Was ever a more causeless move started by men who in every walk of daily life must, in some manner, associate with these same people, who believe that it is their American privilege to worship God according to the dictates of their own consciences—the privilege, nay the right, guaranteed by the constitution of the United States and the constitutions of the several separate states of this beloved union?

The gravity of the situation here is more apparent as the determination of these proscriptionists to defeat a democratic candidate becomes more pronounced. The disreputable circulation of a document prepared by these proscriptionists carries general denunciation with the exposure, and the citizens of Toledo should fully understand that while these dark-lantern chaps seek to injure Harry Dowling they also by their un-American methods are working for the election of John B. Stuart.

Mr. Stuart, who is to be the recipient of their favors and the beneficiary of their unchristian methods, publishes an affidavit that he had nothing to do with the publication of the circulars.

Mr. Stuart is a member of this secret society, and has taken an oath to proscribe Catholics. It is also said of him that he is, or has been, an officer in one of these societies. It is certain that he has solicited membership in this order. It is known that this disreputable circular was prepared and issued by this proscription society of which Stuart is an active member. The document was issued to benefit John B. Stuart. Its existence was known more than a week, in the Blade office, and that paper, presumably by knowledge of the conspirators, sought to prepare the people to believe it was a democratic scheme; this part of the program was a cover to hide the disreputable politics which is too mean to permit the sun of honesty to shine full upon.

Now, with all this chain of connecting links, does any intelligent citizen believe that John B. Stuart is not accessory to this crime upon free citizenship? Mr. Stuart has hitherto been credited with being a shrewd politician, but he made the worst break in politics and manhood when he joined this know nothing society to pit neighbor against neighbor in an unholy crusade of ostracism.

Let the sense of fairness which is characteristic of American citizenship assert itself in this time of trouble. Our republic has flourished because of its open politics. No republic can exist with a politics that is sealed with secrecy and oath-bound membership, and no community can prosper where such political methods prevail.

Mr. Stuart has heated this poker red hot, now let him have the hot end, and heat it still hotter. He has chosen the sword, now by the sword let him perish, and with his defeat let ostracism and proscription forever cease in this beautiful city, wherein we all live, have our being, our religion, our business and we hope, our prosperity. Let us be neighbors, not enemies.

"YOU AND US."

The New York Mail and Express—an administration organ which quotes scripture at the head of its columns and puts more hatred and venom under its texts than could be gathered from a half dozen other prints—this paper, owned and controlled by a snobbish aristocrat who believes he is in partnership with the Almighty in governing the world and the people thereof—this paper formulates a screed "to the workingmen" instructing them how to vote for their own best interests. The most noticeable thing in it is the "you" and "us" sentiment. So wide is the gulf which divides the laborer from the millionaire pharisee, the supposition is Col. Shepard's paper is not at all competent to advise laboring people. It knows nothing of their wants and their trials and cares loss. All it wants now is votes for its party. The American workingman with a particle of spirit should scorn such petting from the would-be royal republican aristocracy. There's no room for prince and peasant in this country. Better listen to some person who says "we" instead of "you" and "us."

MORE DISREPUTABLE POLITICS.

The republican campaign committee has also gone into the anonymous circular business.

Mr. Foster Warren is the object of attack and a vicious screed is circulated. It is charged that when he was treasurer of Lucas county Mr. Warren caused numerous taxpayers to be sued and that many poor persons were the victims of such lawsuits. Now, the truth is, and the republican committee know it, that Mr. Warren did just what the law compelled him to do, and nothing more. He did just what his predecessors did and just what his successors have done.

The more this matter is examined the worse it appears for the republicans, for it is a notorious fact that a republican legislature placed the collection of delinquent taxes in the hands of the prosecuting attorney, and as that attorney was a republican, if any poor people suffered the republicans are wholly to blame.

This last piece of disreputable politics is in the interest of Jacob Englehardt who, in the administration of the commissioner's office, has defied law and damned the public. Under his administration the treasury has become well nigh bankrupt and scandalous transactions have been common.

The taxpayers, in their own interest, should vote for Foster Warren for commissioner, and should not be deceived by the lying anonymous circulars distributed by the republican central committee.

OUR TICKET.

A Splendid Lot of Candidates for the People to Support.

The Hyatt steal should be condemned by the voters of Lucas county. Vote for Foster Warren and thus condemn it.

The despicable and outrageously unfair campaign made against Senator John Ryan should be sufficient reason for every democrat to be zealous in his support. See that his name is upon your ticket.

Dr. C. L. Van Pelt, democratic nominee for coroner, is well known as one of Toledo's leading physicians, and has the cordial support of nine-tenths of the profession in Lucas county. That he will be elected appears to be a foregone conclusion. He cannot fail to be an efficient coroner.

Judge Grayson Mills deserves election. Appointed by Gov. Campbell to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Dewitt, his services on the bench have been eminently satisfactory. With the full democratic vote of Lucas county cast for him he cannot be defeated.

Senator John Ryan has served the people faithfully and well in every position with which he has been honored. The interests of Toledo and Lucas county demand his re-election to the senate. The city and county suffered sufficiently in the state board of equalization to emphasize this fact. Vote for John Ryan.

Wood county promises to give Hon. John W. Canary a majority of the votes for senator. This is as it should be. Mr. Canary has made a winning canvass, and his services to the district will be of vastly more benefit than could be rendered by either McConica or Rorick. Lucas county should support Mr. Canary to a man.

Robert F. Booth is a representative laboring man, and as such would keep a careful watch on all interests of this character which would come up in the legislature, for which body he is a candidate on the democratic ticket. Laboring men clamor for representation in the halls of legislation On Tuesday they have an opportunity to show their sincerity by voting for one of their number.

Harry Dowling is a Toledo boy who has grown up among the people, without a smirch upon his character. That he is strong is plainly shown by the virulent attacks made upon him. It is a satisfaction to know, however, that these have had the opposite effect intended. Harry will be elected, as he richly deserves to be. Vote for Harry S. Dowling.

Mr. A. C. Bay is one of Toledo's energetic young men, and as a representative of Lucas county in the legislature would fill the bill completely. His nearly two years' service in the board of councilmen would prove a valuable aid to him in dealing with legislation in which the city is so vitally interested. Vote for Tony Bay and there will be no reason for regret.

Willard Van Wormer is the democratic candidate for infirmary director. This is another board on which there is not a democratic representative. Mr. Van Wormer belongs to a family well known for honorable life in the county. He is a laboring man and identified with labor interests, and no workingman should think of voting against him. He was grand marshal of the great parade labor day. Everybody vote for Van.

No one questions the fitness of Mr. Jacob Mandler, the democratic nominee for county treasurer. A business man of sterling integrity, the community would have confidence in the administration of the affairs of this responsible office. Mr. Mandler is not making a pleading canvass for re-election, but when the votes are counted it will be found that Mr. Mandler has not been asleep.

The office of county commissioner is an exceedingly important one. The nominee on the democratic ticket, Hon. Foster R. Warren, has served in that capacity, and has a knowledge of the requirements of the position. He will never treat the people with contempt, nor will he pursue a "public be damned" policy. The board is now solidly republican, which should not be in the interests of ordinary fairness. Vote for Foster Warren.

The farming community could not have their interests more ably represented than could be done by John Weckerly, of Whitehouse, who is the candidate from the country on the democratic ticket. He is a general favorite in the part of the county where he resides, his friends being among rich and poor alike. Mr. Weckerly has filled positions of honor and trust in his township, and has always given the utmost satisfaction. The people need not expect less of him were he to represent them in the legislature. Vote for John Weckerly.

NOVEMBER WEATHER.

Beautiful Days in the Middle of the Month.

The First Half Will Be Disturbed by Storms.

The Subject of Electricity and How it Works to Make and Break the Disturbances in the Air Around Us.

Copyrighted 1891 by W. T. Foster.

St. Joseph, Mo., Oct. 31.—From the 11th to the 20th of November will average warmer than either the first eight days or the last eight days of the month. Clearing weather may be expected to leave the Pacific coast about the 2d or 3d of November, crossing the continent in about four days. The first half of the month will probably be more stormy than the last half.

My last letter gave forecasts of the storm wave due to cross the continent from Oct. 30 to Nov. 8, and the next will be due to leave the Pacific coast about the 5th, cross the great central valleys from the 6th to 8th, reaching the Atlantic coast about the 9th. The storm center will probably take a central route, causing quite cool weather and snow in the northern tier of states, and as it passes warm weather will occur in the southern states south of it. Several frosts will follow it in northern and southern latitudes. Cloudy weather will increase and the long periods of beautiful sunshine become less extended. Real winter weather may be expected in all the northern tier of states and a near approach to winter in all the states along the 40th degree of north latitude. But the severest weather may be expected during the first days of the month.

Study Electricity.

Of all the subjects now attracting general attention none are of more importance than electricity, and there is certainly a very great demand for information on that subject. More attention should be given this subject in our institutions of learning, especially in the high schools, seminaries, colleges and universities.

Electricity is destined to supercede the use of steam as a motive power, gas for light and wood and coal for fuel and only one or two more such men as Edison are necessary in order to usher in these important events much earlier than the masses will be prepared for them.

The time is probably not far away when our railroads will be operated by electricity instead of steam, and this change alone will require a vast amount of education. In all affairs of the world young men must be prepared to take the places of the older ones, and railroad men, especially train crews, of the near future, must understand electricity. They must possess a vast amount more information than do the average graduates of our higher schools on this subject.

To a great extent our common schools are failures compared with what they might be, because they take up too much time in efforts to give each pupil a general instead of a special education. On an average it requires ten school years for a pupil to graduate in our public schools and one-fifth of that time is used up in the study of geography. Studying the details of the geography of Asiatic-Russia and many other countries is useful to very few and in a similar manner much useless time is spent on other studies that might, with more profit, be given to the study of electricity and other necessary studies especially by those who are liable to be called on to work with electricity.

Electricity is certainly the life principle of the animal and vegetable kingdoms, the motive power that sends the life-blood through the arteries and veins, and the sap to the vegetable cells and when these ideas fully dawn upon the slowly progressive mind of the world of man, a greater demand for knowledge on the subject of electricity than has ever been dreamed of will spring up.

Add to this the fact that electricity is the force that causes all weather changes and that this force constitutes the only true basis for the science of meteorology and the argument is complete that no time should be lost in establishing electricity as one of the principal studies in our schools.

At this time it may be considered premature to surmise as to the ultimate source of generated electricity when we have passed the rapids of discovery through which we are now going but I will venture a few suggestions. I believe that all space is filled with matter either electricity or condensed. We find least electricity where we find most condensed matter and most electricity where we find least condensed matter. The higher we go into the atmosphere the lighter is the matter composing it and the greater are the quantity and tension of electricity and when we go to the sea level we find this order is reversed.

This leads up to the idea I desire to express as to the future source of electricity for use as a motive power, light, fuel, etc.

Its fountain head being above or outside our atmosphere, or lower and denser portions of it must tap that great fountain and bring our electricity from above.

This idea is not inconsistent with the known laws of electricity. All scientists hold that space is positive and the earth negative, or in more easily understood terms, the large quantity is above and the smaller quantity in the earth. Benjamin Franklin brought down the electricity from above on the string of a kite, showing that it moves from the atmosphere above to the earth below. All electricians say that the higher strata of clouds are positive as to the next below them, and these in turn are positive as to still lower strata, while the lower clouds are positive as to the earth. All this means that electricity comes from above, which is not only in accord with the suggestion that we must tap space above us for electricity, but is also evidence in support of my other theory that the earth grows by condensations of electricity, these condensations being the origin of electrical force, which is only the attenuated matter of space set in motion.

Edison's theory, so far as it has been made known, is that we must either get electricity from the earth or transmit it from some great water power. I believe that he, or some one soon to take up his work, will find this to be an error, and instead they will look aloft. So far as I know it has not been tested, but when it is I believe a much greater volume and tension of electricity can be generated on top of the highest mountains than at sea level.

If some schema cannot be devised by which to draw from the immense quantity of electricity existing in the upper atmosphere, then I have another suggestion to make. I believe the atmosphere and water, as well as all other condensed matter, to be condensations of electricity, and we must discover how to resolve these into their original electricity. I have long believed this to be the principle of the Keeley motor, which has not yet been perfected, and if Mr. Keeley fails to solve this mystery with his "atomizer," as he very significantly calls it, the times will soon furnish another who will take up the work where he left it and discover the secret of resolving water or the atmosphere, perhaps both, into electricity.

Necessity is often the propagator of discoveries as well as the mother of invention, and of necessity a great discovery in the field of electricity must soon be made. Great improvements have been made in the appliances for controlling and using electricity, while but little progress has been made for many years in the base of operations in generating electricity. As I believe, a wrong theory has prevented progress. Electricity has been looked upon by all "orthodox" scientists as only incidental, accidental, an effect, with no permanent and prominent place in the great economy of nature.

We must reverse all this and give to this force its true position which is the cause of causes, the one great, original force, while everything else in nature, mind and matter, in all their relations and conditions, are only effects. If our electricians once learn that electricity is only matter in motion, coming from all points in space, adding its atoms to the gross matter of our earth, they will then understand that everything is made from condensations of this electric ether, and they will set about resolving matter back into electricity for use as fuel, light and power. On this line I firmly believe that a great discovery will be made within a few years which will revolutionize many industries and make a vast demand for those who have knowledge of the practical workings of electricity.

For years I have believed that the time would come when, by chemical action, water, air, and many solids would be exploded as we now explode gunpowder, and that instead of transforming the matter into gasses as in the case of gunpowder it would be resolved into its original atom, electricity, as it existed before being condensed. Study electricity.

THEY TOOK COAL

And Were Obliged to Pay Dearly for It In the Police Court.

For some time the Wheeling & Lake Erie railway company have been suffering considerable loss from petty coal thieving by people living in the vicinity of their tracks, who carry off the coal in small quantities to use. It was determined to arrest these offenders and put a stop to the pilfering if possible and four cases in police court this morning was the result. Jacob Zimmerman and George Hardy were each fined $5 and costs on charges of petit larceny, and a like case against Mat. Langanbacher was continued until Monday. Mrs. Catherine Scheuster was arraigned on the same charge. She is an old German woman, and besides being unable to speak English, is totally deaf. She was discharged with a warning to take no more coal. All of the parties arrested stated that men in the yards had given them permission to take the coal and they claimed that they had no intention of wrong doing. Judge Sala warned the railroad officials to guard their yards better if they want to prevent the stealing.

DELIGHTFUL ENTERTAINMENT.

In Commemoration of the Reformation Festival at St. Stephen's English Lutheran Church.

The Young People's society of St. Stephen's English Lutheran church last evening observed the Reformation festival in an appropriate manner by a very enjoyable entertainment. The church was beautifully decorated, there was a good attendance, and the excellent program was well carried out. This included organ selections by Miss Laura Hitchborn; a duet by Misses Lucy Adams and Agnes Collander; an essay on "The Reformation Act" by Mr. Fred A. Becker; a solo by Miss Anna M. Hauser; essay on "The Man and the Day," by Edward Goodside; trio by Misses Adams, Hauser and Collander; recitation by Miss Emma Birkenkamp; solo by Miss Lucy Adams; recitation by Miss Emily Otto; songs by a quartet composed of Misses Louisa Herzig, Sophia Ott and Messrs. F. Becker and J. M. Krumm; recitation by Miss Edith Poggemeyer; paper on "Wittenburg," by Thad F. Poggemeyer; duet by Misses Herzig and Otto, and a recitation by Miss Birkenkamp.

This program was interspersed with songs by the whole society and remarks by the pastor, Rev. J. F. Beates.

CAN READ THE SIGNS.

Republicans See No Hope of Electing McKinley.

The Legislature Will Also Be Democratic.

A Republican Writer, After a Tour Through the State Tells His Readers a Most Discouraging Story.

Washington, Oct. 31.—(Special)—Major John M. Carson has another letter in the Philadelphia Ledger explaining the Ohio situation. Major Carson is at all times candid, but he admits, much to his regret evidently, that McKinley's chances of being elected in Ohio are, to say the very least, doubtful.

It is Major Carson's belief, also, that the democrats will control the next legislature.

He does not say so in as many words, but considering that he is a very ardent republican partisan himself and that he is out in Ohio helping McKinley, his observations cannot help being interesting.

Here is an extract from a letter by him printed in this morning's Philadelphia Ledger, which will go far towards explaining the situation from a republican standpoint:

"My observations have led to a correction of a belief entertained before coming here that the republicans of Ohio were practically united in an earnest support of the McKinley tariff act. I have found republicans everywhere who, while heartily believing in the protection theory, are of the opinion that the measure of protection in many cases is too high in the McKinley act, and some of these have expressed a determination to vote against McKinley on that account.

"The latter class, however, is not numerous, but there is reason to believe that the moderate tariff views of ex-Congressman Butterworth, of this state, whose voice has not been heard in the campaign, are shared by a greater number of Ohio republicans than those represented by Major McKinley. The recent reduction in wages by industrial establishments here and elsewhere has been damaging to the advocates of high duties, and has shaken the confidence of the wage-earner in the arguments so glibly made by peripatetic partisan orators, that 'increased duties lower the price of the product and add to the wages of American labor.'

"At Akron and other places in Ohio the condition which not only confronts but pinches the laborer mocks the orator who presents this theory of increased wages. It is doubtless true that the reduction made in wages at Akron was without reason or justification, but this fact may not be given much consideration at the polls by those who are suffering in consequence of the reduction. I visited Akron and found the republican managers very much exercised over this matter. They believe it will be seriously felt at the polls, but hope it will not extend so far as to transfer Summit county to the democratic column. It is such cases as this which make the result uncertain on the legislative ticket, and which make the democrats so hopeful of re-electing Campbell."

THE BEE KNEW.

General Forsyth's Daughter Will Be Married on Thursday Next.

Some days ago the Bee announced that the wedding of Miss Bessy, daughter of Gen. James W. Forsyth, would soon occur, an announcement some of our esteemed Columbus contemporaries took it upon themselves to contradict. This week the Toledo relatives and friends of General Forsyth and daughter are in receipt of invitations to be present at Miss Bessy's marriage. The invitations are as follows:

General James W. Forsyth, Colonel Seventh United States Cavalry, requests your presence at the marriage of his daughter, Bessy, to Lieutenant-Colonel Dallas Bache, Medical Department United States Army, on Thursday evening, November 5, at Fort Riley, Ks.

General Forsyth has many warm friends in Toledo, where his mother still resides. The oldest G. A. R. post in this city is named for his brother, who was murdered while a prisoner-of-war during the late rebellion.

Under the Truck System.

Mr. Brooks Adams is entitled to the credit of having told the best tariff story of the campaign thus far. It is good enough to repeat. It was when the great Calumet copper mine was first opened in the wilderness of Michigan and the miners struck for higher wages.

"But won't higher wages ruin the company?" was asked.

"Not at all," was the reply, "we don't care what we pay the miners so long as we own the grocery store."—Boston Herald.

A "Character" for Steve.

Some question having been raised as to "Steve" Elkins' fitness for a place in Harrison's cabinet, the Republic hastens to give him a "character." He possesses almost every republican requisite for the place, and not the least of the many reasons why he should be appointed is that his cynical shamelessness will fairly offset Wanamaker's sneaking hypocrisy.—St. Louis Republic.

He Can Deny It All, Though.

There are 50,000 unemployed men in the state of New York, and they represent about 250,000 mouths to feed. Something is always arising to remind the McKinley bill of its broken promises. It is embarrassing for McKinley and his party, but there seems to be no way to avoid it.—Kansas City Star.

Hard to Believe.

The dog census of New York has been completed and the papers tell us that, as it was entirely free from political bias, it was honest and satisfactory. It is hard to believe that even a dog census could be conducted in that city without any politics in it.—Indianapolis News.

He May Hit Something, Too.

Putting a crank in the control of a newspaper is on a par with the selection of a maniac as the president of a college. And yet the rumor goes that Carter Harrison is to buy the Chicago Times and point it wherever he may wish to shoot.—Philadelphia Record.

An Appropriate Emblem.

Unlike in Ohio Pennsylvania's ballots won't be headed by either roosters or eagles. If anything in the aviary line were to be adopted for this purpose there would be a marked fitness in choosing the jail-bird.—Philadelphia Times.

Whooping Republicans.

Republicans in the president's own town are whooping for Gresham. If Mr. Harrison cannot please his own party he can scarcely expect the democrats to be delighted with him.—Courier-Journal.

They Will Need Them.

Fassett, McKinley, and Wheeler are busy now preparing statements for publication November 4 on what caused the republican landslide.—Chicago Mail.

Including Ohio's Major.

"The Hon. Warner Miller is still outside of the breastworks."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat. He will have plenty of distinguished republicans to keep him company next week.—Chicago Mail.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

THE POLITICAL ROUNDUP.

In Northwestern Ohio—The Democrats Are in Good Condition for the Election.

Little Henry will be good this year for a round 1,500 for Campbell.

Judge Mills' election by a majority of from 600 to 1,000 is universally conceded.

Sandusky and Wyandot counties will return about the same sized majorities for Campbell—a round 1,000.

Shaw and Geyer will have immense majorities in the Thirty-second district. It is a question only of thousands.

Gov. Campbell carried Hamilton county two years ago by 135. His majority will be at least a hundred greater than that this year.

John Sherman poured a bar'l of his boodle into Paulding county. The old senator has "thawed" more than usual this year.

Hardin county is in line and will give Campbell a majority beyond doubt. Carson, democrat, will be elected to the legislature.

The republican majority in Wood county will not exceed 350. The people down there are rapidly forsaking the high tax republican party.

The prospects for the election of Dr. Wm. M. Denman, democratic candidate for representative in Williams county, are most flattering.

Hancock county will give Gov. Campbell, Canary and Ryan majorities, and will elect a democratic representative. This is a Bee pointer.

All republican lies and misstatements to the contrary notwithstanding, Defiance county will give Campbell 1,200 majority. Another pointer.

A desperate fight is being made on Cunningham, democratic candidate for representative in Allen county but he will be elected by a safe majority.

O. A. Diver will be the next representative from Wood county in the Ohio legislature. He is a democrat and will lick little Benny James out of his boots.

Dr. J. O. Allen, democratic candidate for representative in Fulton county, has made a gallant fight, and his election over Eley is by no means an improbability.

Van Wert county democrats never had such a splendid organization as they have this year. Their entire ticket will be elected by majorities ranging from 200 to 600.

Hon. E. B. Gilliland will be returned to the legislature by the democrats of Van Wert county. Mr. Gilliland has made a faithful servant and will be rewarded.

Col. Brigham has not made many speeches in this neck of the woods this year. He remembers the unmerciful drubbing the farmers gave him last year, and is unforgiving.

Mayor Holmes, of Weston, may not be elected treasurer of Wood county, for he had a hard fight, but he has made a brilliant canvass, and if beaten, it will be by a small majority.

Northwestern Ohio will be gloriously democratic this year. It may be pretty reasonably asserted that but three counties will return republican majorities, Lucas, Fulton and Wood, and these will be greatly reduced, if not completely wiped out.

Harvey Hester will scarcely care to run another campaign in Van Wert county, after he is through with the present one. Hahn sent him to Van Wert to carry the county for McKinley. Now, watch Van Wert.

J. E. Scott, the democratic candidate for treasurer of Williams county, will be elected by a majority which will not be less than 400. Mr. Scott has been deputy treasurer of the county for four years and his election is conceded by republicans as a foregone conclusion.

The closest fight on representative in the northwest will be in Paulding county. M. N. Utley, the democratic candidate, has been the target for a flood of republican villification, and in addition has to fight a great amount of boodle, which is being disbursed right and left by DeWitt, the republican candidate.

Unless all signs fail the close counties in northwestern Ohio will go democratic this year by majorities not far from these figures: Hardin, 150; Van Wert, 600; Paulding, 275; Williams, 350; Hancock, 225. Democrats will very likely elect a representative from Wood, one if not two from Lucas, and have a fighting chance for Allen in Fulton. Every senatorial district will be democratic, and the northwest will be indeed a Gibraltar of democracy. These are only speculations, but they are based on close personal observations.

AN EXCELLENT REASON.

Papa and his guest sat at the table together,
And talked of the tariff, the crops, and the weather,
The Indian outlook, the woman's convention,
And other such matters too numerous to mention,
While poor little Dot, who distinctly preferred,
Like most of her sex, to be seen and be heard—
Whose patience, in fact, neared the end of its tether—
Was waiting a chance for her own little word.

A pause came at last; at the very first knocking
She seized opportunity—wasn't it shocking?—
And chattered so fast that her father, astonished,
Concluded his Dot must be sternly admonished.
"My dear little girl," was his terrible way,
"What makes you so noisy, I wonder, today?
A bit of your tongue I shall have to be biting."
But Dot answered back, with no sign of dismay:
"I's talkin' betause I's dot sumfin' to say."

Henry Gantz, of Hazlewood, Ind., has invented a unicycle or locomotive wheel about ten feet in diameter, by means of which he says he can travel 83 miles an hour. The rider sits within, not outside, the wheel.

The world's fair is going to gather in the curiosities. The first bell to ring in America at Isabella, Santo Domingo, 1493, will be at the world's fair. It is of bronze, eight inches high and six and one-half inches wide.

A French critic, Mirabeau, says Maurice Maeterlinck, a new writer in Belgium, has put into his Princess Maleine things more beautiful than the most beautiful things in Shakespeare.

Occasionally a year may count itself fortunate. James Russell Lowell, Walt Whitman, Thomas E. Parsons, E. P. Whipple, Julia Ward Howe, W. W. Story, Mr. and Mrs. Holland and Herman Melville were all born in the year 1819.

An Indiana man while fishing recently found a very fine pearl. It had fallen from a mussel shell and was lying on the bar. It weighs two and a half pennyweights, and was pronounced a very fine specimen. The man claims that he was offered $300 for it.

The newest acrobatic feat is by a London cyclist named Minting, who, after the manner of the artist who used to roll a ball beneath his feet up a long spiral board, rides a unicycle up a spiral but 20 inches wide and 100 feet high. He has nets stretched below.

A letter from Portland says Oregon is making rapid advancement in all directions, but in all but 11 counties of the state there are log school houses in which the young ideas are taught how to shoot. Of temples of learning of this style there are in the state a total of 105.

Prof. Kohlbranch, who has been making some curious experiments with lightning, finds that the amount of electricity in an ordinary flash is so small that it would require 37 flashes to keep a common incandescent light burning one hour.

When people are only in the twilight of civilization they are easily amused and often their amusement takes the form of brutality. Bull fights are still the popular amusements in Venezuela. Nearly every city has its ring and its coterie of bull fighters.

There is tall timber in the northwest. One of the largest logs ever cut in the state of Washington was floated down the Snoqualmie river last week. It was a fir log 32 feet long and 79 inches in diameter at the upper end. Ten horses could not move it, and five yoke of oxen had difficulty in hauling it.

More letters go to the dead letter office from Saratoga during September than from any other postoffice in the United States. For nine months of the year the postal business there is that of a city of more than one hundred thousand population, and when visitors leave the hotels they neglect to leave addresses to which letters may be forwarded.

It is proposed to remove Dickens' Old Curiosity Shop, in London, to the world's fair, Chicago. A syndicate of Americans has purchased the building, and the work of taking it down and carefully packing it is going forward. Of recent years the building has been used as a paper shop.

The other day a team was backing up with a load of wood in order to dump it over a high wall in Manistee, Mich., in order to throw it in a back yard some distance below. The load and two horses went over the wall, falling on the corner of the house below, leaving the man, horses, wagon and wood all in a heap and, strange to relate, but little damage was done, although the fall was 30 feet.

Phonographs are to be used in Mexican postoffices for the benefit of those who cannot read or write. The illiterate Mexican will go to the postoffice, talk his message into the receiver of the phonograph, and when the cylinder reaches its destination the person addressed will be sent for and the message will be repeated to him from another machine.

An English stationer once adopted a fanciful mode of dressing his window by placing it in piles of stationery so arranged that pyramids should be formed. In order to finish these piles accurately he cut some cards to bring them to a point. Some of these cards were sold for writing paper, and as they were too small when folded to be addressed, the stationer invented envelopes to contain them. Hence the fancy shapes of letter paper.

A statistician in Paris had the patience to count the number of words employed by the most celebrated writers. The works of Corneille do not contain more than 7,000 different words, and those of Moliere 8,000. Shakespeare, the most fertile and varied of English authors, wrote all his tragedies and comedies with 15,000 words. Voltaire and Goethe employed 20,000. Paradise Lost only contains 8,000, and the Old Testament says all that it has to say with 5,642 words.

Explorations in Pompeii have this year uncovered five more rooms, not far from the forum. Visitors were astonished to find in them a number of pieces of bread, which must have been wrapped up in napkins, the tissue of which is still in a perfect state of preservation. There was also found a pretty casket, on the lid of which was inscribed the words "Ani Mo," which the learned inspector of the excavation translated as the proper name of Aniculus Modestus.

When one reads of the state "privately executing" some one, there is a suspicion that the capital punishment in the case was cowardly and unjust. Sophie Gunsberg, the beautiful nihilist privately executed some weeks ago in a Russian prison, is said to have been the original of the heroine of Colonel Savage's novel, "My Official Wife." Colonel Savage is said to have met the fascinating intriguante in Paris once and to have been completely taxed by her charms.

Certain Georgian judges have a peculiar way of defending their dignity. The other day one fined a lawyer for being late in court, for which the latter characterized him as no gentleman. Whereupon the judge, it is related, stepped from the bench and knocked the lawyer down. He then resumed his seat, had the offending lawyer brought before the bar and put him under heavy bonds to answer for disorderly conduct and contempt of court.

THE THEATER.

"A Dark Secret," the Great Realistic Drama

To Be Put on at the People's Next Week—Shenandoah Coming—Annie Eva Fay—Notes.

"A Dark Secret" which retains its hold upon the public as firmly as when it first startled the country with its daring and wonderful realistic innovations, will be the attraction at the People's theatre for the first time in this city, commencing Monday next. So many radical changes have been made in it that the great acquatic drama is now virtually new and much more effective than ever before. All the scenery is new and of special beauty. Managers Jefferson and Taylor having lavished a large amount of money on the elaborate stage equipment.

The water episodes, always striking, have been rendered doubly so by the enlargement of the tank. Such changes have been made in the celebrated Henley regatta scene as to give the most beautiful and natural picture imaginable. All the surroundings of the broad stream of rippling water are complete, and there are crowds of interesting spectators, who, while waiting for Oarsman George Hosmer and his competitors in the race to arrive, are amused, as at an English regatta. Two steam launches and numerous river craft pass over the course, loaded with ladies and children in holiday attire.

The attempted drowning, the dive and the rescue, as at present done, are exceptionally thrilling, while the rain storm of real water, accompanied by fierce thunder and lightning, is unsurpassed as a realistic stage effect.

Of the company the Boston Globe says: "The characters are cleverly drawn, being flesh and blood creations. The play is strongly melodramatic, and there is sufficient comedy element to lighten it pleasantly. It was well acted, Miss Belle Stoddard as May Joyce being pleasing and forceful. M'lle Lidiana Miska the Governess, was tigerish, as the author intended. Messrs. J. S. Thompson and Joseph L. Mason, as the Brothers Norton, deserve praise for good acting; and E. B. Tilton made Martin Brooke a manly university athlete, and was admirable. Mr. John E. Hynes made much of a character bit, Jem Slim, for which he deserves goodly praise. The drama was elaborately produced, and may be accounted one of the hits of the season. The credit of the production is due to Mr. C. B. Jefferson, showing dramatic literary ability and inventive skill."

Manager Brady has made arrangements to have full election returns read at the theater Tuesday night.

Shenandoah.

Shenandoah will no doubt draw large audiences at the Wheeler opera house next Friday and Saturday. Its every line and situation is full of real human interest. Its story is dramatically powerful and one that thrills every beholder. There is nothing so stirring to the blood, nothing that so arouses the average man as the sound of martial music, the boom of cannon and the rattle of musketry. When the boys in blue are seen retreating with broken ranks across the valley of the Shenandoah, who is there among us that does not feel like springing from his seat and crying, "Charge, boys, charge! On, comrades, on!" The man is not half a man who does not feel the spirit of warfare rise high within him when he witnesses a scene like that.

It is not too much to say that "Shenandoah" is dramatically one of the strongest and most intensely interesting plays before the public. The scene is laid in the Shenandoah valley during the war for the union, and the flavor of war incidents and romance render it thrillingly exciting. The author has been fortunate in so constructing his play that it does not appeal to sectional prejudice, but is as popular with the veteran who wore the gray as the one who wore the blue.

The necessary love story is well told and fittingly developed, and the element of comedy so essential to the success of every drama, enters largely into its composition. Few modern plays have been so well adapted to the popular idea as this work of Mr. Howard's. The company is said to be good, without exception, and includes Hardee Kirkland, Frank Dayton, N. D. Mann, Theo. Hudgins, Louis Hendricks, Wm. L. Gleason, Charles J. Green, James Mantell, A. Mazzanovitch, Charles Wells, Charles E. Mitchell, Jessie Stewart, Nina Glenson, Grace Atwelle, Virginia Marlowe, Arline Athens, Mrs. Polly King, and other well known people.

Spiritualism.

Annie E. Fay, the renowned spiritual medium, will give a seance at Wheeler opera house next Sunday evening, November 1. Of her powers as a medium the Boston Globe says: "Before a large and critical audience in Providence last Sunday evening, Miss Anna Eva Fay, the 'medium' now attracting so much attention, produced phenomena on an open stage in plain sight of the whole audience, which staggered the most skeptical. Possibly there may be more things in heaven and earth than are dreamed of in our everyday philosophies. At all events, this sort of thing is entitled to a fair hearing—the world wants the facts regardless of what effect they may have, on this or that 'ism'."

Annie Eva Fay created a genuine sensation last year at the Wheeler's opera house and will be cordially welcomed at the same theater to-morrow night in another of her marvelous seances. The Buffalo Express after a lengthy account has this to say about Miss Fay:

Music hall was filled to overflowing last evening, an immense audience turning out to witness the performance of Miss Anna Eva Fay, of London, Eng., in her illustrated science of spiritualism. Before the entertainment began the large audience became impatient, but later on wonderment and curiosity dawned upon the whole audience.

This was Miss Fay's second appearance in Buffalo, her first visit being about five years ago. In the meantime she has appeared before most of the noted crowned heads of Europe, receiving distinguished attention from all and valuable gifts from many sovereigns.

Preparatory to the performance last evening Buffalonians were invited to overlook the seance from the stage, Judge Daniels, Ald. Jack White, Dr. Southwick, Dr. Pohlman and several others not being omitted. Mr. Mark S. Hubbard of the News and Mr. John Druar consented to act, and Miss Fay was then introduced to the audience. She was cordially received.

Downing Coming.

Robert Downing, the distinguished tragedian, who has often delighted Toledo audiences and who is a prime favorite here, is booked for Wheeler's opera house Monday evening, November 9, when he will play Julius Caesar. Mr. Downing has a strong company with him this season and his engagement will be a treat.

Notes.

Miss Minnie Gale, who scored such a success here this week, will open a weeks' engagement in New York, November 9.

Frank Mayo and McKee Rankin have joined forces and will begin a season together at Buffalo Monday in a new play called The Athlete.

Ellie Akerstrom will to-night close a most successful week's engagement at the People's theater. Annette, the Dancing Girl, will be repeated.

"The Man with a Hundred Heads," the German comedy, which is said to have met with success in Berlin, will be produced by Comedian Dixey at Herrmann's theater, New York, next week.

The New York Gazette is a new and spicy little dramatic weekly printed in the interest of a score or so of companies and distributed exclusively by their advance agents. A Dark Secret and Shenandoah are included in this combination.

Elmer E. Vance's Limited Mail, which made such a success at the People's theater last winter and which will be repeated this season, is playing one night stands through the central states to phenomenal business, averaging over $600 per night. This piece has now been on 61 consecutive weeks with a total profit of $74,000.

"La Cigale," an opera comique in three acts which scored a great success in Paris and London, received its first American production at the Garden theater, New York, by Lillian Russell and a strong company. The music is by Edmond Audran, and the English libretto by F. C. Burnand. The cast includes Miss Lillian Russell as Marton, Miss Ethel Ross-Selwicke as La Frivolina, Miss Ray Allen as Alizia, Miss Attalie Claire as Charlotte, Mr. Louis Harrison as Vanderkoopen, Mr. Dungan as Duke of Fayensberg, Signor Tagliapietra as Knapps, Mr. R. Arthur Ryley as Wilkiam, and Herr Carl Streitmann as the Chevalier Burnz. The story is of course founded upon La Fontaine's fable, and the music is said to be in Audran's happiest style.

There are to be no more Sunday theatricals in Arkansas. The appeal of W. C. Quarles, manager of the Capital theater, Little Rock, against the decision of the Pulaski circuit court, has been denied by the supreme court. For every subsequent performance, in violation of this finding, a fine of $1 would be imposed. It was uncertain, however, whether this was $1 on each ticket sold, or $1 on each performance. To test this the manager gave a performance last Sunday night. He is awaiting the result.

PUGILISTIC COUNCILMEN.

Members from the Sixth Have a Little Seance.

Friends Interfere or a Fight Would Have Resulted—Other Business Before the Council Committees.

When the gas committee was called to order last evening, Alderman Potter presented by resolution from the board of aldermen providing for the appointment of a light inspector, whose duty it would be to inspect the electric lights of the city and report any and all defects in detail. He would be required to make note of all lights out and of the length of time such defect existed. This would be forfeited by the electric light company, and the ordinance fixed the salary of such an official, not to exceed one-quarter of the amount forfeited by the company.

Mr. Everrett said he understood that this was the duty of the police.

Mr. Potter thought the police could do it if they would.

Solicitor Read stated that it would be a good idea to solicit the co-operation of the police board and have that body instruct the police to look after the electric lights.

The matter was tabled for two weeks to give Mr. Read time to confer with the police board.

The next matter called was the ordinance fixing the price of artificial gas, which has been pending in this committee since last May. Four or five weeks ago a sub-committee was appointed to examine the gas company's books and make such investigation necessary to intelligent action.

Mr. Potter as chairman of that committee, reported that no conclusion had yet been arrived at, and requested that a report be postponed for two weeks.

Mr. Walker opposed further continuance, for the reason that the matter had been dragging so long and he was tired of the constant delay and wanted action taken at once. He then introduced a resolution providing that a contract be entered into with the Toledo Gas Light and Coke company to supply artificial gas, to light all city buildings and offices from December 1, 1891, to January 1, 1894, at $1.20 per thousand cubic feet net, and to private consumers at $1.35 per thousand, with a reduction of 15 cents per thousand, providing that it be paid on or before the 7th of each month.

Mr. Caldwell was opposed to the committee being too hasty. A committee had been appointed to investigate, it was not quite ready to report, and he was in favor of waiting a little while and derive the benefit of the investigation.

Mr. Walbridge was present and stated that if the committee felt that it was not well enough instructed to act intelligently, he would rather action be deferred for such time as would give the committee opportunity to make a thorough investigation. The resolution was laid on the table for two weeks.

Mr. Macomber raised the question as to the abatement of the electric light assessment on corner lots. It seems the council at its last meeting passed an ordinance providing for such an assessment, but failed to adopt the resolution to abate the assessment of corner lots.

Mr. Everett stated that he had been looking up the law and had come to the conclusion that the ordinance as it now stands was unconstitutional, for the reason that there was no state law authorizing such an assessment, and expressed an opinion that while the council had no authority to make certain assessments, it had power to abate them. If the assessment on corner lots was not right and just it could be abated and paid by the city.

Solicitor Read stated that this would be the safest way to avoid litigation—to pass the ordinance as a whole and then abate the assessment on corner lots. This action will be taken by the council at its next meeting.

The street committee approved resolutions to improve streets as follows:

Pave Fifteenth, from Washington to the Clover Leaf railroad.

Pave Oakland avenue, Cherry to Blanchard.

Pave between Erie and Ontario from Monroe to Washington.

Lenk, from Swan creek to Railroad avenue.

Brigham, Doyle, Pomeroy, Enright, all from Comstock avenue to Ketcham avenue.

A petition to change the name of French and Dodge streets to Greenwood avenue was approved.

A similar petition was presented to change the names of McCloud avenue, Bedorthia street, County Road 339, to Wheeling street. Mr. Caldwell wanted it Wheeling avenue, and the chair appointed same a committee of one to see to it.

Contract for grading Union street was awarded Thomas McKinney at $1,800.

A resolution to confirm the contract with I. C. Wernert for paving Dove Lane was laid over two weeks.

Property owners petitioned for permission to pave Fifteenth street, 12 feet wide, 280 feet south of Madison street. Laid over two weeks.

A resolution to improve First street from Oak to Yondota, with 8 foot plank, was read. It had been laid over. Mr. Gill, side partner of Caldwell, from the Sixth, said he has a few words to say in favor of passing the resolution:

"Just wait a minute, Mr. Chairman, I have something to say in this matter," cut in Caldwell, and he proceeded to explain that the property owners on First street wanted a good pavement if they did have to wait awhile for it, and he was in favor of leaving the resolution on the table.

Mr. Gill stood back, dumbfounded at the gall of the man who so neatly gagged him. He was boiling nevertheless, and when his neighbor of the Sixth ceased speaking he let go a perfect torrent. In his speech, he accused Caldwell of being dishonest. Caldwell called him a d—d liar. The words were scarcely out of his mouth, when Gill was at him, and a rough and tumble scrap would have resulted had not the sergeant-at-arms grabbed Gill and put a stop to the trouble.

The committee adjourned, and the two East Siders went at it again outside. Friends interfered this time and saved some one a bloody nose.

BUSINESS BAROMETER.

The State of Trade During the Past Week.

An Uneven Condition—Good in Some Localities, Bad in Others—A General Review.

New York, Oct. 31.—R. G. Dun's weekly review of trade says: The improvement in business continues. It is greater than before at the west, considerable at the south, and is clearly perceived even at the east. Yet discouragement in some branches of industry is not less, but more apparent than before, evidently because calculations have been made upon a more rapid and greater increase in business than has been realized. Premature expansion in some forms of production and of trade has invited the usual corrective and a depression exists which is so general that it might easily be misinterpreted.

The iron industry shows most change. Extreme anxiety to sell pig iron, and financial weakness in unexpected places, produce a present depression which is in curious contrast with the abounding confidence which prevails regarding the future. Bar mills find a lack of large orders; plate mills have fair business at the lowest prices ever recorded, and structural iron is irregular and also very low. The anthracite coal market is more cheerful. Copper is depressed by heavy sales at 11 1-2c for lake; tin has gone below 20c, and lead has sold down to 4.2c.

Wool is somewhat easier. The dress goods market is active and works well employed, though at narrow margins of profit. Cotton mills have increasing business in fancies, but trade in staples is falling off, and buyers urge that lower prices are justified by the decline in raw cotton. Yet the southern demand is better, and the trade on the whole fairly good.

Reports from other cities are decidedly more encouraging than usual, though at the east improvement is not rapid. Boston reports fair trade, with improvement in many lines. At Philadelphia flannels, blankets and woolen goods in better demand from the west. Improvement is seen in groceries. At Cleveland trade in dry goods, groceries and hardware is good, and fair in shoes and clothing. At Cincinnati some improvement is seen in merchandise, and the whisky trade is fair. At Chicago some gain is seen in receipts of oats, a seventh in cattle, a sixth in flour, a third in hides, a quarter in dressed beef, and receipts in wheat and rye are three times last year's, but cheese, butter and wool fall short a little, corn, barley and cured meats a third, and lard 75 per cent. In dry goods, clothing and shoes trading is much larger than a year ago. Business is good at Milwaukee and St. Paul, and at Minneapolis the flour output, 206,000 bbls., is again the largest on record. At St. Louis seasonable goods are in strong demand, and distribution greater than a year ago. At Kansas City steady and healthful activity is noted, and trade is encouraging at Louisville, fairly good at Memphis and Nashville, with cotton receipts very heavy at Galveston, New Orleans, Charleston and Savannah. At most southern points general trade improves, but at Charleston money is still tight.

Speculation in breadstuffs has advanced prices this week, partly on account of the reported prohibition of wheat exports from Russia. Receipts at the west have been 5,844,000 bu in four days, against exports of 1,305,000, and yet the price rises 2 cents. Without any other cause, speculative manipulation has hoisted corn 5 cents, but pork products are a shade lower, and cotton declines a sixteenth, with continuing heavy receipts. Oil has fallen three-eighths, but coffee is a shade stronger and sugar unchanged.

No fears are entertained of monetary pressure. Throughout the east and west, and at most southern points, money markets were well supplied for legitimate business, and rates tend lower, while collections improve to some extent almost everywhere, but especially at the principal western points.

The business failures occurring throughout the country during the seven days number 255, as compared with a total of 249 last week, and for the corresponding week of last year the figures were 218.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN.

Salisbury, N. C., Oct. 31.—Mrs. Charles Price, of Salisbury, third vice president of the board of lady managers of the world's fair, has just received a letter from Mrs. Potter Palmer, highly approving an idea originated by Mrs. Price, of employing for guides at the fair, a number of southern women, who will thus be given an opportunity of paying their expenses during the exposition and perhaps of earning a handsome sum. Their duties will be to take people over the exposition grounds and also to act as interpreters for those who do not speak our language.

RAW AS BEEF-STEAK
Baby's Fearful Suffering from Skin Disease Covering Entire Body Cured by Cuticura.

My baby was taken very sick when he was three months old, and in a few days began breaking out. We employed both of the home doctors, and they could do nothing for him. Then we went for the best doctor in Eaton Rapids, Mich., and he doctored him for two weeks, and he got worse all the time; and then I took him to Jackson, to a doctor who attends especially to skin diseases and then he got worse than ever. Then I told my husband we had better try the CUTICURA REMEDIES any way; did not have any idea they would do any good, but in less than two months from the time we began giving them to him he was entirely well and not a spot on him. His hair began growing right off and we thought he would always be baldheaded. There was not a spot on his whole body, face and head, only his nose and eyes but what was as raw as beef steak. So poor there was not anything but bones, and so weak he could raise neither hand nor head.

Shining with its amber beams;
Glinting with its golden gleams;
Like a vision'd smile from heaven
Seems the sunshine where it streams.

Oftentimes when dewy morning
Wakes the world, the dark night spurning,
Mingled with the wild-bird's strain,
Pouring through the window-pane
Comes a burst of dazzling sunshine,
Flooding o'er the room like rain.

River flowing, surging slowly;
Lake whose calm is unlike holy;
Dewdrop glistening on a flow'r;
Fountain flashing in a bow'r;
Ye are lovely, beauteous only
By the sunshine's wizard pow'r.

O the sunshine is a kindly
Giver, dealing ever blindly
Benison alike to all.
In the castle, hut or hall,
Tree and flower, mount and meadow,
Jasmine porch and ivied wall.

Women seem to have very little trouble eliminating everlasting punishment from religion. There are nine hundred women preachers in the United States, and the majority of them belong to the Universalist denomination.

If you hear any one say souvenir spoons are "going out of fashion," just boldly contradict them. Leading jewelers in New York are making new and more elaborate designs for the holiday trade than have ever been put upon the market.

It was a New Yorker who originated the pretty thought and one wonders that it didn't enter somebody's head long ago. Now we are promised sets of historic spoons, literary spoons, bridal spoons, and so on. Think what possibilities lie in this direction. The spoons at an afternoon tea may give innumerable subjects for conversation, and so relieve the stiffness which sometimes afflicts table socials. The Old World gold and silver smiths have caught the idea and embody patriotic emblems in some of their neatest work. Spoons bought in Scotland are decorated with the thistle or the bagpipes; the Irish spoon has the shamrock or the harp of Erin for design. The French spoon will have the fleur de lis, the royal scepter or some touch of the beautiful capital which they all worship. You cannot find the large size tea, coffee or orange spoon in even the largest shops. This isn't a holiday ad for jewelers at all, but it may contain a bit of information for those who have gifts to buy.

A new industry in London is the "Women's Gardening Association," organized by a few ladies. They take contracts to care for conservatories, window boxes, balconies and small gardens by the year, season or month for reasonable wages. They also take charge of and give extra care to cemetery lots and small gardens. This may be a hint to some of the work-seekers in our own country. A man or firm of men insist that they must have governmental aid in starting a new industry. A woman without vote or voice is able to do this successfully, in numberless instances.

Woman's greatest need in her home and domestic life, as well as in public life, lies in the direction of classification of work. It has been the bane of her existence, and has driven her in too many instances into an insane asylum—her unceasing effort to fulfil the mission of ten workers, to be an expert in a dozen professions without education and training for any one of them. The housemother in the country home used to make butter and cheese, dry apples and manufacture the gloves, mittens and stockings for the family. She was seamstress, laundress, baker, janitor, fireman, nurse, hostess and cook for steady business, with the incidentals of sickness, company and other extras thrown in. So we hail with gladness every step of progress in the classification of work. Work performed by specialists for obvious reasons is always more satisfactorily done. And the home bake shop, the itinerant sweeper, mender, seamstress, trunk-packer, mackerel-woman, caterer, shopper, reader, writer, and gardener—mostly new occupations, are heralds of the better day fast coming for the house wife and mother, whose one pair of shoulders has carried burdens heavy enough for ten.

A sensible and practical paper appears in a late number of the Home-Maker which may be helpful to some of our householders. While they may not be able to follow this mother's example in detail, they may gather useful hints from the description of her methods. Skill and management are better gifts than money, without them. And recitals of actual experiences and glimpses of real homes are better than all the theories that can be presented. Here is the description of "an ideal nursery." Happy childhood is such thoughtful and intelligent keeping:

"My children never dress in the nursery where they sleep," said a young matron to me the other day.

"What a blessing to have more than one nursery," I said, thinking of the limitations of most modern houses, where only one room is possible for the children's use, day and night.

"Come and see me," she said.

So when I had time I made a trip to the pretty suburban home, and was well repaid for going.

"Here is the children's night nursery, and here is the baby's night nursery, and here is the day nursery beyond is the bathroom," she said, as I followed her through a suite of rooms given up exclusively to the use of her three little ones.

The sleeping nurseries were not large rooms. As they were designed only for sleeping-rooms, it was simply necessary that they should contain closets, two single beds, two chiffoniers. Each little one had a brass bed to itself, and in the baby's room, which communicated, was a larger one for the nurse. These rooms communicated with the day nursery, where each little one was dressed and undressed, at all times of the year, before an open fire. Beyond this, still communicating with it, was the bathroom, supplied with two bathtubs—the ordinary plunge bathtub, in which each child had its daily bath, and a short sitz-tub at the head of the larger one. As soon as the children wake, instead of playing in bedrooms kept cool for the night, they are taken directly into the warm day nursery, and with wrappers and woolen slippers can wait by the open fire till their turn to be dressed.

But this day nursery—what a dream for city children! Lighted by four beautiful windows through which the sun pours three-quarters of the day, its size gives a wall space that has been utilized for every purpose dear to the hearts of children.

In a recess made by the outside design of the house, the quick-witted little mother has had built a doll's house, and above it shelves for the "cupboard closet," where every child loves to keep her treasures at night. Here is the girls' corner.

A companion recess has a cabinet for the boys' pebbles, tops, tools, jimmies, and above this too a set of shelves for the show toys—mechanical monkeys, clowns, dogs, squirrels, stuffed birds, etc. Nor are the bookcases wanting; pretty, low dwarf bookcases, with curtained shelves for the torn books, and the newest, best-kept books on the uncurtained shelves. Above these bookcases are the pictures children love and should learn to know.

A rocking-horse, a nursery swing, a broad, low couch with stout springs and washable cover; white muslin curtains at the windows, and a straw matting with a large rug over it, completed the furnishing of this ideal day nursery, leaving with me a picture difficult to equal.—Myra Sawyer Hamlin.

THE ART OF COOKERY.

How and Why It Pays to Know How to Cook Well.

The pride of Toledo in its Manual Training school system is nowhere better justified than in the success of its classes in cooking. This course is now being taught for the sixth year, and up to the present not less than 250 girl pupils of the High school have been trained in the art of cooking. Among the High school graduates of 1888 were two Toledo girls, Miss Marion F. Smith and Miss Matilda G. Campbell, who in the following year became the teachers of cooking and have since been so engaged with success and ever-increasing enthusiasm. At present there are between 40 and 50 "sweet girl cooks" in training, taking one lesson each school day of the week, four days being devoted to practical lessons, and one, Monday, to theoretical teaching and chemical tests of cooking materials, made in the High school laboratory.

For a year there has been talk of establishing an evening school, which would be for the benefit of working girls who were employed through the day, just as there are successfully conducted schools for journeymen in the evenings. Last Wednesday evening these two teachers, who are delighted at the prospect of extending their field of usefulness, gave a brief paper on the why and how of these classes, before a number of working girls. The result was that the beginning of a class was made that evening, and the class will be completed at the school room next Tuesday evening.

Believing all the Household will be as interested in an exposition of Toledo's cooking school as was the one member of the Household who heard the papers read, they are, with permission, given here.

How the Lessons Are Given.

We begin with the simplest forms of cooking, so as to lay a foundation to work upon, and lead up to the more complicated form. We teach principles and methods, as well as give the real practice in cooking. We give the reasons why things are thus and so; tell how to do things in order to obtain the best results; tell the difference between the right way and the wrong way; show how things are when done correctly; and tell what the results would be if done the wrong way.

After giving a class all the directions, the recipes, and little points there are to be known in connection with the lesson, then the class passes round to the different tables, each pupil to her own assigned place, and makes the different articles according to directions, works out the recipe.

Of course we won't have the same time in this evening class that we do in our High school classes. You, I expect, will to able to take but one lesson a week; and that will be given on the night which is most convenient for the majority. We expect to give a course of 16 lessons; so that will take up about four months. Each lesson will begin promptly at 8 o'clock, and will last as long as necessary to finish the lesson; generally about two hours.

We begin with the simplest forms of cooking, and that is boiling. Many people have the mistaken idea that there is no special art in boiling; anybody can boil. But let me assure you there is considerable art in boiling. Take potatoes, for instance. There are many, many people who never boil a potato properly. They never know when is the right time to take it out; and it is either underdone or overdone; often if you will take the pains to look at the water the potatoes were boiled in, you will see it full of potato pieces. They were overdone; and perhaps boiled too hard.

This should not be. It is useless waste, and in cooking there should be no waste. Everything that is good to eat should be saved and utilized; all left over bits from the table; bread, potatoes, meat, puddings, cake—no matter what, if not unused, it should be saved, and used in some other way. It is a very true maxim, "Waste not, want not."

From boiling of vegetables we begin on soups—and soups seem to be many housekeepers' bugbear. They like them, realize the good of them, and yet are utterly at a loss to make a soup fit to serve on the table. I was surprised this summer when an old housekeeper asked me to please show her how to make soup. She could not take any her son would touch, and he was very fond of them. So as soups are very nutritious, and as they help out wonderfully on dinners, they are very important to know how to make.

We teach the cream soups that are made in a hurry, and the stock soups, or those made with stock as a foundation. Doubtless there are some who do not know what stock is even.

From soups we take you to stews; teaching the different cuts of meat used for stews, and in that same connection comes all the cuts of meat. Where they come from, what they are used for and so forth. In connection with stews we tell you why certain pieces are used in preference to others and why they should be prepared in certain ways to obtain the desired and best results.

Then comes the different ways of cooking different meats and different cuts of meat; all about roasts; how to roast and why; where they come from and how to manage them from beginning to end; and last how to serve them. There is much more in serving cooked food than one would imagine at first, in order to make them appetizing and pleasing to the eye.

Then comes how to manage fowl—to cook is in different ways; how to make gravies so they won't be lumpy and greasy; how to cook fish.

After meats we take up bread making in all its various forms; and that everyone knows is very important. In bread making comes the making of yeast in several ways; and making of white bread in several ways; then comes the different kinds of bread, rye, graham, brown—baked and steamed—rolls, raised biscuit; gems, muffins; then the griddle cakes of all kinds, which come under the head of breadstuff.

From bread making we go into the mysteries of pastry; and so many people have such terrible times with pastry—others never have a hard time at all. The only thing is to know how; and no matter how complicated a thing seems to us, when we know how our ownselves, it seems the easiest thing in the world. And you will always find that so, no matter what you undertake. Before you know about it, it may seem too hard for you to ever to be able to comprehend; but as soon as you have learned how, the ingenious complications will seem only natural, and not difficult at all—and you may wonder how you ever thought it was hard.

When pastry is finished we take up frying; teaching to make the appetizing croquettes; doughnuts, fritters and so forth. That is not quite so hard after you learn to take care of the fat; not allowing it to burn; and still keeping it hot enough to fry articles; after you have learned to manage it properly, so the articles fried will not be burned or greasesoaked.

Then come plain cakes and puddings, and some of the delicate desserts; salads, omelets and some miscellaneous articles and relishes. Your course cannot go very deeply into all these departments of cooking, but we will do our best to give you a good foundation, and then it will be very easy for you to build on that foundation and become as expert as you please. If you learn to cook well, you need never want. You will always have something to fall back upon. A good cook can always find plenty to do to keep her busy; and profitably busy.

MARION S. SMITH.

Why the Lessons Are Given.

The great object of manual training is to create a higher appreciation of the value and dignity of labor and the worth and respectability of laboring men and women. A person who sees nothing in manual labor but mere brute force, despises both the labor and the laborer. With the acquisition of skill in himself comes the ability and willingness to recognize skill in others, and when once he appreciates skill in handicraft he regards the workman with sympathy and respect.

This applies to the manual training of both boys and girls—but as our time is limited, we will consider the subject only as it applies to girls—but in the end we hope our work will benefit both the boys and men of the country—for the old saying, the way to a man's heart is through his stomach, has been proved many a time, and when the women of the land come to a realization of the fact that good cooking goes a long way towards making happy homes and good men, the question of temperance will be largely solved.

Can we blame a man entirely, who after a hard day's work, goes home to find a scolding wife, who sets before him sour bread, burnt steak and muddy coffee, for seeking in the evening the shelter of a neighboring saloon, where all is bright and warm? Not that the man is excused and the blame all put on the shoulders of the poor woman, for in many cases she does her best, and the husband should remain at home and endeavor to make things happier; but then you know that human nature is very, very weak.

Now look on the other side of the picture—a home small, but dear—industry and thrift shown on every side, a smiling wife and a table set with clean, though not fine linen, order prevailing, well cooked food even though it be the plainest, and tell me truly, do you think the husband will be as apt to leave home immediately on rising from the evening meal? Think oh think, what a responsibility rests on the shoulders of a wife and mother!

There are, however, a large number of us who, perhaps, do not expect to soon have homes of our own, and to those who are cooking in the kitchens of others, the responsibility is equally great.

We all know that skilled labor commands good wages—justly, and what man would demand good wages as a carpenter, say, that knew nothing of his trade? He might, perhaps, be able to saw a board in two and drive a nail, but with only this knowledge to back him, he would not expect to receive the pay of a skilled artisan; but consider how it is with a girl who goes out to work as a cook, that is with many of them, of course there are exceptions to every rule.

She is in a number of cases entirely without experience and goes to interview her future mistress, her only thought being to get as much money for as little work as possible.

To the question, can you make good bread, good soups and cook meat well? alas! how often does she have to give no for an answer? and then in return she wants her evenings out, Thursday and Sunday afternoons and other privileges.

Now consider, if the girl is competent and willing, a good cook, are not her demands much more likely to be granted than if she had nothing but inexperience to offset her? Would not her employer be more willing to give her liberties if in return she received the girl's best work?

But let us come to the subject of cooking. Cooking is the art of preparing food by the aid of heat for the nourishment of the human body. There are but few things upon which the health and happiness of a family depend more than on the manner in which our food is cooked.

All civilized nations cook their food, and the degree of civilization is often measured by the kitchen. Heat brings out and develops the flavors in many foods and makes them more digestible. All fruits or vegetables which are eaten without being cooked by artificial heat have been cooked and ripened by the heat of the sun. Milk and eggs would be worthless if they did not come from the warm, living body.

The subject of cooking may be divided into five heads, namely, boiling, baking, broiling, frying and mixing. If these five departments are all perfect the great ends of domestic cookery are answered.

Just consider boiling for an instant (and by the way that is the first subject studied in our class work). We know that boiling is cooking by immersion in boiling water. Now, what effect does boiling water have upon the meats and vegetables put into it?

Meat is made up largely of a substance resembling the white of an egg, called albumen. We know the effect of boiling water upon the white of an egg, or albumen, is to harden it, as we see in boiled and poached eggs. Hot water has the same effect upon meat. When meat is put into it, it is hardened; that is, a crust is formed over the outside and the nutriment is kept in. But put the meat into cold water, and we notice that the water soon becomes red, showing that the blood and juices, or the nutritious part, is being driven out into the water.

There are three ways of boiling meat. First, for soups; second, to be served whole, and third, for stews.

In the first case our object is to draw all the nutriment out of the meat into the water. We best accomplish this by cutting into small pieces so as much surface as possible may be exposed, putting them into cold water, letting them soak, and then bringing slowly to the boiling point.

When meat is to be served whole, we want all the nutriment in the meat; so we plunge it into boiling water to harden the outside so the juices cannot escape. We then move the kettle where the water. We best accomplish this by boiling point till meat is done.

In making stews we want part of the nutriment in the meat and part in the water, as both are served.

This will also teach us something about washing meat. Many careless cooks put it into cold water to soak and then throw the water away, wasting a large portion of the good of the meat; whereas the proper way is to wipe the meat off thoroughly with a wet cloth, so avoiding all loss.

In the cooking of a potato, a vegetable of the greatest importance, how often are the methods employed such as to bring out a hard, yellow, soggy, indigestible ball. The potato has probably been thrown into cold water with the skins on, placed on some part of the stove where it may boil or not, as the spirit moves it; when soft it is allowed to stand in the water till serving time comes; is then imperfectly drained, with the result before described, and if it is not mealy the fault is laid to poor potatoes.

But wash and pare the potato and drop into boiling, salted water; keep at a steady boil till a fork will pierce it easily. Then drain off every drop of water; let stand uncovered on the back of the stove to allow the steam to escape, shake gently, and serve immediately. The result will be a snowy ball of powdery lightness. The method of boiling potatoes being thoroughly understood, we apply it to the cooking of all fresh green vegetables, remembering they must be put into boiling, salted water, cooked steadily and drained perfectly the moment they are done, the time of cooking varying with the vegetable and its age and freshness.

To come to our second main division baking—there is as much, if not more, to learn about general principles underlying it than of boiling. The most important part of baking is the making of bread and breadstuffs, and some time I hope to be able to explain to you all bread-making in its minutest details.

What ought bread to be? It should be light, sweet and tender.

The savage mixes his flour with water till it forms a paste, which he throws into boiling water and it comes out a solid, glutinous mass, of which his common saying is—"Man eat dis—he no die," which a facetious traveller who was obliged to live on it interpreted—"Dis no kill you—nothing will."

This sort of food is fit only for the stomach of a savage. Civilized nations must have their bread lightened. By lightness is meant simply that the particles are to be separated from each other by little holes, or air cells, and all the different methods of making bread are neither more nor less than the formation in bread of these air cells.

We should then strive to find the best methods. The most generally satisfactory is raising bread by yeast, if rightly managed the results being more wholesome and palatable than that of bread raised by baking powders, or soda combined with an acid.

Yeast is a small plant which, when introduced into bread grows, and in growing forms a gas which seeks to escape from the dough, but the dough being elastic, does not allow it to, but expands and holds the little bubbles of gas. We then bake the bread, which hardens the dough around the little cells; so the bread is porous and we say it is light.

If the bread is allowed to stand too long this gas turns into an acid and sours the bread; and to know the exact point when the bread is ready to be baked comes the skill and science in the work.

I might go on for hours naming articles and showing the difference in results from methods employed—one not necessarily more trouble or work than the other—simply one is the wrong and the other the right way.

Now I claim that once the principles and the science of cooking are understood by the women of the land there will be a radical change in many households. The work will be taken up with more pleasure if we go at it understandingly, and the household drudge will be a thing of the past.

But how is this happy state of affairs to be reached? Why, by each woman charging herself with her duty, educating and broadening her mind; not being content with trudging along in the old rut, but progressing each day, each hour, until she masters her work; not thinking for an instant of allowing it to master her.

Then will be heard the cry, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things."

MATILDA G. CAMPBELL.

A Word to Music Pupils.

Dear young people who are studying music, accept a bit of advice from one who has had over fifteen years' experience as a teacher. First, don't let your teacher have to keep nag-nag-nagging to get you to count your time. Don't have to be repeatedly told to hold your hands in good position. Oh, but it does rile them so!) Don't discourage your teacher and friends by neglecting your practice. Sit straight, keep your eyes on the music, and don't think that you know more than your teacher. And last, but not least, when your teacher comes at your lesson hour, don't be away taking a ride on your bicycle. Her time is precious if yours is not. Remember, if it is worth while for you to study music at all, it is worth while to give it your best attention and energies. An indifferent musician, vocal or instrumental, has small place in the world when cultivation is becoming so thorough and so general.

Over Our Teacups.

Lady Somerset, president of the British Women's Temperance association, and Mrs. Hannah Whittlesey Smith, a famous biblical scholar and author, are guests of Frances Willard at Evanston, Ill. These ladies, with Miss Willard and her coworkers, will attend the national temperance convention in Boston this month. They must notice the strong hold that temperance sentiment has upon the people in this country. In their home land the bottle on the dining table has the place that we give to the coffee and tea cups.

The recent Anthropological congress at Moscow, which lasted fifteen days, was presided over by a lady, the Countess Owaroff.

Miss Addie F. Johnson of West Virginia has for three years had entire charge of a grist and planing mill. To a natural talent for machinery she adds a deftness of execution that enables her to take down and put together an engine as well as any engineer in that part of the country.

The United States will be represented at the Universal Peace congress, which meets at Rome, Italy, next month, by Mrs. Mary Frost Ormsby, who has gained prominence of late as a champion of economic reforms and the single tax doctrine. She has long been an active member of Sorosis, and is a member of that society's committee on house and home. She belongs to the executive board of the Universal Peace union, and is vice-president of the Woman's National Press association. Mrs. Ormsby is a vigorous and independent thinker and occasionally utters views that startles her hearers.

A Chicago writer who signs herself Amber has been saying the reason she doesn't want to vote is because politics is pitch and she doesn't care to blacken herself with it. And men editors are quoting her silly saying and calling it a "bright feminine idea." Queer, isn't it, that they don't resent the "pitch" insinuation? She says: "If I could vote without knowing anything about politics I might accept suffrage." Well, plenty of men do that, but they are not considered remarkably prolific of "bright masculine ideas."

The spirit of order must reign in a home before the children can acquire it and no one can bring it there but the mistress. If she begins early in her married life it will not be hard to win. If she waits until she is overwhelmed with the cares of a family, the task will be far more difficult; but even then it is not impossible. Begin somewhere and reform one thing to order, the rest will fall into line if you persevere. No one who has not tried it knows what a relief it is to have a certain time assigned to a certain duty and not to have to think of it again until that time comes round in due course.

For the first time a woman has carried off the Colden club £50 prize offered at the English universities for the best essay on an economic subject. The prize is competed for in successive years in rotation at Oxford, Cambridge, and Manchester. This year it was the turn of the Victoria university, and the winner was Miss Victorine Jeass, B. A., of Manchester. The subject of the essay was "The Industrial and Commercial Efforts, Actual and Prospective, of English Factory Act Legislation."

The interest that women are taking in commercial and labor questions and politics generally, in England, is something to call the attention of our own students. But women are granted franchise in Victoria's queendom.

The number of widows, minor children and female defendants receiving pensions is only 108,537, out of a total of 676,169 pensioners. This inequality is plainly, as admitted by the commissioner of pensions, "because the women have no voice and no 'pull' in politics."—Boston Herald.

SPORTS ARE BARRED.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 31.—The faculty of Yale university has decreed that the class of '94, both in the academic and scientific departments, shall not, as a class, take part in any athletic sports during the term of the class in college.

This action was taken as the result of the disturbance created on the campus last Saturday night, in which a corps of tutors were roughly handled, and is without precedent.

Wheat Quotations for the Day—Price Current for Produce and Other Articles.

Notice.—This Exchange will adjourn from Monday 2 o'clock to Wednesday at 10 o'clock, on account of the state election.

The receipts of wheat at seven principal western points to-day are 1,157,968 bus., compared with 646,383 bus. on the same day last year.

The receipts of wheat to-day at seven principal western points are 511,585 bu. in excess of the corresponding Saturday in 1890.

The receipts of grain this week at eight principal western points have been: Wheat 8,364,000 bu.; corn, 1,429,000 bu.; oats, 2,841,000 bu. In the corresponding week in 1890: Wheat, 2,905,000 bu.; corn, 2,233,000 bu.; oats, 2,151,000 bu., showing an increase in wheat of 4,459,000 bu.; a decrease in corn of 807,000 bu., and an increase in oats of 690,000 bu.

The export clearances yesterday at four Atlantic ports were 230,030 bu of wheat, and flour to an aggregate of 300,000 bu.

The clearances from above ports for the week have been wheat 1,616,000 bu, corn 522,000 bu, oats 136,000 bu. Previous week wheat 1,857,000 bu, corn 743,000 bu, corn 181,000 bu.

Bradstreets gives the clearances of wheat from all the ports on both coasts for the week 3,381,123 bu, and including Canada 3,507,204 bu. Previous week, including Canada, 3,783,178 bu.

The movement of grain at the eight principal western points this week show the following increase over previous week: Wheat, 503,000 bu; corn, 338,000 bu; oats, 860,000 bu. It is the largest movement on this crop.

Markets.

Slight rains in some parts of the winter wheat belt is all the news we have, except that foreign markets are lower. The exportations from four ports are more than 200,000 bu wheat less than in previous week, and 200,000 bu less from both coasts. Dry weather is what holds wheat now. Of course if Russia prohibits exportation of grain it will start prices at first, but prices abroad do not reflect this expectation.

New York market closed at 12 o'clock. October wheat was 1-4 and December 1-2c better; November corn 3-4c higher and October oats 3-8c lower.

EGAN WILL BE RECALLED

Such Are the Words from Blaine To-Day.

He Has Been the Cause of All the Trouble.

The Junta Looks on Him as a Spy and an Enemy of Their People, and Will No Longer Tolerate Him.

New York, Oct. 31.—A Washington special to the Mail and Express says, that at yesterday's cabinet meeting, President Harrison insisted on an immediate conclusion of the Chilian negotiations, and laid before the cabinet Chili's demand for the recall of Egan as a condition precedent to a successful settlement of the difficulty.

The president declared that before he would submit to the humiliation of a minister's recall under the circumstances he would prefer to abandon his office.

The result of the meeting was a cablegram instructing Minister Egan to insist on an immediate reply to the last note, and to inform Chili that delay would not be tolerated.

The same dispatch says that a communication was received from Minister Egan this morning indicating no abatement of the ill-feeling towards this government and reporting that his efforts to hasten the investigation have been fruitless and he does not think the junta is disposed to give satisfaction.

He has been prepared to leave the country and thinks his retirement may be essential for the preservation of the lives of Americans.

The Evening Post says: "The gentleman in this city who was informed yesterday of the demand of Chili for the recall of Minister Egan says he received to-day an authoritative dispatch from Washington announcing that Mr. Blaine had promised Senor Montt and the United States legation would be put in charge of its secretary next Monday.

DIED FOR HER HONOR.

A Pretty Girl Found With Her Throat Cut.

Wm. Miller, a Boarder in the Family, Who Has Disappeared, is Suspected of the Crime.

New York, Oct. 31.—Minnie Rauhauser, a pretty German girl, 17 years old, was found with her throat cut last night at her home in West Sixty-seventh street. An examination revealed the fact that the girl had been murdered and that a criminal assault had been attempted.

Wm. Miller, 26 years old, who boarded with the Rauhauser family, is supposed to be guilty of the double crime. He has disappeared, but the police expect to capture him in short order.

Miller has lived with the family for over six years and was regarded by them as almost one of the family. The Rehauser family were with the exception of Minnie away on a day's visit, and of this fact Miller took advantage.

It is believed that he attempted to outrage the girl and that she successfully resisted him. The rooms were found in great disorder as if a fierce struggle had ensued. Foiled in his attempt to outrage the girl it is believed that Miller became furious and committed the murder.

LOG OF THE GREAT LAKES,

The Susan Peck Has Reached Detroit.

Wolf & Davidson Sell Their Mammoth Ship Yards for a Quarter of a Million.

Milwaukee, Oct. 31.—The Wolf & Davidson shipyard was sold to Fred C. Stark, of the Milwaukee tug boat line, for a consideration of $250,000. The deal has been pending for some time and was not consummated until this morning. It is understood that the new owner will form a stock company under another name.

The announcement of Mr. Wolf's retirement from the shipbuilding business will create interest from one end of the lakes to the other. He is Milwaukee's veteran shipbuilder and is known far and wide. Fred C. Stark, who will succeed him in the general management of the business, is a young man who is thoroughly familiar with marine interests. He possessess a great liking and aptitude for marine architecture. Mr. Stark will take possession Sunday, November 1.

The Susan Peck.

Detroit, Oct. 31.—The steamer Susan Peck arrived yesterday in tow of the Favorite, leaking very little. She is waiting her turn to go into the new drydock. She looks comparatively unhujured except the break in her starboard bows, which is not very large. The schooner D. P. Rhodes has been aground since noon at Grosse point. At last accounts she is still fast.

Schooner Sawyer Abandoned.

Cleveland, Oct. 31.—The schooner J. D. Sawyer, ashore above Avon point, was abandoned to the underwriters yesterday. She is insured for $15,000 with Crosley & McDonald, of Chicago. Capt. C. E. Benham represents the underwriters. He placed a man in charge of the vessel yesterday and he will probably strip her in a few days. Nothing has been done to release the schooner David Stewart, ashore near Fairport.

BURNING EMBERS

Mark the Place Where North Baltimore Stood.

A City Almost Obliterated by the Flames.

Twenty-One Splendid Business Houses Destroyed.

Four Hundred Thousand Dollars in Smoke.

A Scarcity of Water and a Small Fire Department Only Encouraged the Conflagration in Its Mad Consuming Career.

North Baltimore, Oct. 31.—(Special)—The great oil town of Wood county was destroyed by fire this morning.

Twenty-one business houses and 13 dwellings were burned.

The blaze started in an oil well just west of the main street of the town, and swept Main street from the B. & O. railroad north to Broadway, on the east side, destroying 21 business houses, including the Beacon, newspaper, People's bank, postoffice and some of the largest blocks in the place.

On the west side of the street the fire destroyed 13 business houses, including the Hotel Burke, a portion of the opera house, and many three story buildings.

The town is almost without fire protection, and help was summoned from Fostoria, but the scarcity of water rendered the work of the firemen almost useless.

Among the buildings burned were: Clark's drug and furniture store, Jarecki supply store, Hotel Burke, Pether's saloon, Lamfroni's clothing store, Demith & Bamhill's saloon on the east side, and the postoffice, seven saloons, Arnold's harness shop, city bakery, Carmack's drug store, People's Banking company, Katzenmeyer's grocery, Reinhart's grocery and Gibson's hardware store.

The loss, at rough estimate, cannot fall far short of $400,000.

The elements made a complete wreck of the lawn and the excited and heartbroken citizens were powerless to stay the flames.

The fire department could render but little assistance in the face of the high wind and scarcity of water, and the conflagration held high carnival until it had burned itself out.

A sensational report was in circulation this morning that a family had been burned to death, but it proved to be untrue.

A RED HOT CAMPAIGN

Defiance County Will Be Heard From.

A Strong Fight Has Been Made by Democrats.

Good Reports Will Be Flashed Over the Wires When the Votes Up There Have Been Counted.

Defiance, O., Oct. 31.—(Special)—Politics are warming up in this portion of the state. The campaign up to a week or so ago has not been a very animated one and each party had apparently been holding their ammunition in readiness for a final effort on the eve of election.

Never in the history of Ohio politics has this section of the state been invaded by so many prominent republican politicians as within the past few weeks, and the McKinley managers seem to be concentrating their forces in the northwestern portion of the state. The presence of these gentlemen in this section causes democrats to think the situation is becoming desperate and augurs well for the election of Campbell.

Defiance county is a democratic county under any and all circumstances, but the republican party managers are making the fight of their lives this fall knowing this is probably the last fighting chance they will have for possibly a great many years.

The republicans of this judicial district are making an effort to defeat Judge Silas Sutphen for common pleas judge. Opposed to him is W. S. Snook of Paulding. Mr. Snook is a mongrel candidate and will appear on the official ballot as a republican and an independent candidate. This is a shrewd trick to catch the people's party vote. Judge Sutphen was selected almost unanimously by the democratic convention and then the fine Italian hand of the republican bosses was discernible. They did not call any convention to nominate a candidate for judge. The wire pullers also had an influence with the ring masters who wielded the long whip in the sawdust arena in which the people's party did the high wire act. The people's party did not call any convention to nominate a candidate to pit against Judge Sutphen.

He has many friends in Williams, Henry and Defiance counties, and scores of republicans will vote for him, realizing that he is most eminently fitted for the position and far superior to Snook as a jurist. The district is democratic and Judge Sutphen will run ahead of his ticket in spite of combined efforts of the opposition parties to down him.

The contest for representative in this county is waxing warm. The representative to be elected this fall will be the first one Defiance county will have under the new order of things. Heretofore this county has been allied with Paulding county and they have been represented jointly in the house.

The democrats have nominated John W. Winn of this city. The republicans have headed their county ticket with W. L. Tomlinson, while the people's party have placed in nomination Jacob D. Abele of this city.

Late in the campaign an independent convention was called at Bryan to nominate a candidate for judge. This call was printed in all the republican papers in the district and from the reading of the call one would infer that at this convention everybody would be welcome. The convention purported to be a mass meeting in the hope of combining the forces of the labor party and the republicans in a hope of defeating Judge Sutphen. Every vote in the convention was cast by republicans, and Snook was nominated. The republican managers have had his name certified to the election board as a republican and an independent candidate, a sort of a double-header, as it were. By this trick they hope to defeat Judge Sutphen.

Mr. Sutphen was an eminent lawyer before his elevation to the bench, and has made a fair, impartial judge.

Tomlinson is a resident of Farmer township and resides in the extreme northwestern portion of the county. He is a farmer by occupation, a chronic office seeker by inclination and a failure in both avocations. He is the man who Frank Clemmer defeated for commissioner two years ago, and is looked upon by the republicans as the man who will poll the largest vote on the ticket.

The people's party are rallying to the support of Abele. He is a cigarmaker by profession.

John W. Winn was born in this county and grew to manhood on a farm in Washington.

He laid the foundation for future prosperity and fame by working on a farm during the summer season and attending school in the winter. Being naturally bright he soon acquired a sufficient education to teach school. From the money he accumulated by teaching he read law, going to Cincinnati for that purpose; was admitted to the bar and has served the county as prosecuting attorney, making a capable and efficient official.

Mr. Winn has been doing some good work for the ticket and has made a host of friends in his canvass of the county. He will be elected by the largest vote of any man on the ticket.

WOMAN'S FIRST DUTY.

The woman who does not read and study in these days gets left behind the procession. Education does not stop when you quit the high school or leave the seminary. Colonel Thomas Wentworth Higginson very truly says the mother can inform herself upon public questions in the intervals of her cares as the father among his; and the baby in the cradle is a perpetual appeal to her, as to him, that the institutions under which that baby dwells may be kept pure. One of the most devoted young mothers I ever knew—the younger sister of Margaret Fuller Ossoli—made it a rule, no matter how much her children absorbed her, to read books or newspapers for an hour every day, in order, she said, that their mother should be more than a source of physical nurture, and that her mind should be kept fresh and alive for them.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS.

A demurrer to the petition in the case of Jennie B. Bond against Isaac N. Poe, et al., was overruled by Judge Lemmon this morning.

THE FARMER FEELS IT,

His Wagon Will Cost More this Year.

A Circular Issued to the Trade by the Milburn Wagon Company of Toledo.

Canton, Oct. 31.—The republican campaign prevaricators who have been claiming that the McKinley bill had not increased the price of farm wagons have again been called down by the following circular to the trade.

It was not intended to mail this circular until after election day, but their Canton agent, who happened to be in town yesterday was given one in advance:

Milburn Wagon Company,
Toledo, Oct. 29, 1891.

Owing to the increased advance in prices of material, especially wood work we are compelled to say to you that hereafter we will not be able to allow you as good a discount as heretofore.

Your contract from this date will be 5 per cent discount less than heretofore. This, of course, will compel you to advance your prices on wagons, which you will have no trouble in doing, as we are not the only concern who have found it necessary to get better prices for goods.

We trust this will be satisfactory.

Respectfully yours,
MILBURN WAGON CO.,

Next to Opera House, Cleveland, O.

A PERMANENT INSTITUTION of many years standing. Established for the special treatment of NERVOUS, CHRONIC, SKIN AND BLOOD DISEASES.

NERVOUS DEBILITY,

Decay of Body and Mind, Self Distrust,

POOR MEMORY, WEAK EYES,

STUNTED DEVELOPMENT, LACK OF ENERGY,

Impoverished Blood, Low Vitality,

And all effects of

ABUSES, EXCESSES, IMPROPER LIFE, ETC.,

which renders MARRIAGE UNHAPPY and LIFE MISERABLE

Are

PRIVATELY, SAFELY AND PERMANENTLY CURED.

Nervous Debility.

Those suffering from Nervous Debility, the symptoms of which are a dull distressed mind, which unfits them for performing business and social duties; make happy marriage impossible, distress the action of the heart, causing flushes of heat, depression of spirits, evil forebodings, cowardice, fear, dreams, short breathings, melancholy, tire easily of company and have a preference to be alone; feeling as tired in the morning as when retiring; lost manhood, white bone deposits in the urine, nervousness, trembling, confusion of thoughts, watery and weak eyes, dyspepsia, constipation, paleness, pain and weakness in the limbs, etc., should consult us immediately and be restored to health. By a wise course of treatment, adapted to your age, sex and physical condition, the tone of your system can be raised, the tendency to impure thoughts removed, and the strength and vigor of health restored to the debilitated organs.

Marriage.

Married persons or young men contemplating marriage, aware of physical weakness, loss of procreative powers, impotency, or any other disqualifications, speedily relieved. He who places himself under our care may confide in our honor as gentlemen, and confidently rely on our skill as Physicians. We have had many years experience in hospitals and private practice and are graduates of the most eminent Medical Colleges of the U. S.

A PERFECT RESTORATION GUARANTEED.

Organal Weakness

Immediately cured and full vigor restored. This distressing affliction which renders life a burden and marriage impossible—is the penalty paid by victims of improper marriage, distress the action of the most acute knowledge that the passions are the great magnet by which the whole world is attracted. Destroy them and what have you left? There is no longer interested in the opposite sex; the interchange of that blissful repose which attracts and interests the whole world, exists no longer; man ceases to be what God made him; the world is no longer interesting to him, and remorse and disappointment are his constant companions. We have devoted years to the study of the best methods of treating the various forms in which this disease manifests itself. We treat every case on its own merits; and thousands to day join in thanking us for the new lease of life and happiness our skill has opened up to them.

Young Men who have become victims of SOLITARY VICE—that dreadful and destructive habit which annually sweeps to an untimely grave, thousands of young men of exalted talents and brilliant intellect, may call with full confidence.

We address all those who have injured themselves by improper indulgence and solitary habits which ruin both body and mind, unfitting them for business, study, society or marriage.

A CURE WARRANTED.

PERSONS RUINED IN HEALTH by UNLEARNED PRETENDERS, who keep trifling with them month after month, giving POISONOUS AND INJURIOUS COMPOUNDS, should apply immediately.

REMARKABLE CURES

Perfected in OLD CASES which have been NEGLECTED or UNSKILLFULLY TREATED. No Experiments or Failures. Parties treated by mail and express, but where possible, one personal interview is preferred.

Curable Cases Guaranteed. Address with postage

The board of managers of the Old Ladies' home wish to call the attention of their friends and the public generally, to the notice of the reception and donation to be held at the home on Wednesday, Nov. 4. For several years this institution has made no appeal for aid except by the announcement of their donation day. By careful management they have paid the expenses of the household and the interest on the heavy debt of $7,000, incurred in making the necessary changes in the present building. The time has come, however, when it is necessary to ask for assistance. The charity which provides a home and tender care for so many aged and helpless women must find sympathy in the hearts of our benevolent people, and it is hoped that all who feel an interest in this good work, will visit the home on Wednesday, or, if not able to do so, will send as liberal a contribution as their means will permit.

SOFTENING OF BRAIN.

Take the Symptoms in Time.

The above represents an almost incurable case of softening of the brain. This terrible disease can be cured, but must be taken in its first symptoms, which are often slight and apparently trivial. A person grows nervous, weak, irritable, sleepless, wakes tired, has headache, loss of appetite, confused mind, dim vision, loss of memory, dull feeling head, dizziness, despondency, strange sensations, feeling of anxiety or apprehension, cold feet and legs, loses interest in things. You must not neglect these symptoms a moment, but use the great brain and nerve restorative, DR. GREENE'S NERVURA, at once. This wonderful nerve strengthener will surely cure if taken in time. Use it now if you have the slightest of the above feelings. Purely vegetable and harmless. Druggists sell it, $1.00.

"I employed 23 doctors for my wife. Many pronounced her incurable, some advised placing her in an asylum, while others did her no good. She had poor blood, was weak, nervous, debilitated and half crazy. She had female weakness and her kidneys were very bad. DR. GREENE'S NERVURA has completely cured her. She thanks God that I bought DR. GREENE'S NERVURA.

N. R. KING, Danvers, Mass."

N. B.—Dr. Greene, the successful specialist in curing all forms of nervous and chronic diseases, 35 W. 14th Street, New York, can be consulted free, personally, or by letter. Call or write him about your case, or send for symptom blank to fill out, and a letter fully explaining your disease, giving advice, etc., will be returned free.

WHO POISONED THEM?

Alarming State of Affairs in a Jail.

Bridgeport Has Another Sensation on Her Hands—Prisoners Attacked with Peculiar Sickness.

Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 31.—Intense excitement was occasioned here yesterday by a rumor that wholesale poisoning of the inmates of the Bridgeport jail had been going on for several weeks. Steps are taking to institute an investigation. One of them, Edward Allen, who was serving a 30-day sentence for theft, died three weeks ago. The symptoms of his ailment puzzled the jail doctors and the local physicians. It is an intense stomachic distress which refused to yield to the treatment. Since his death seven other patients have been taken sick with apparently the same disease. Six of them have been removed to the hospital and are now improving and expected to recover. Many other inmates of the jail are complaining, although the health officer and jail officials are taking unusual precautions to guard against disease.

ARMSTRONG-McGRAW.

Pretty Wedding at the First Baptist Church.

Last evening at the First Baptist church occurred the wedding of Miss Susie M. Armstrong and Mr. James McGraw. The bride, charming in a white silk gown and carrying bride's roses, entered the church with her brother, Mr. Charlie Armstrong, to the soft strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march and was met at the altar by the groom, Mr. McGraw, the ceremony being performed by Rev. W. H. Sloan. The bridesmaids were Miss Anna Armstrong, attired in white silk, and Miss Belle Geake, of Ft. Wayne, Ind., also in white silk. Mr. McGraw's best man was Mr. Herbert Zeluff. The Orlo male quartette, Messrs. Geo. Cleo, Otto and Andre Weis and Harry Tieltke, were ushers.

After the ceremony a reception to the intimate friends and relatives was held at the bride's home. Mr. and Mrs. McGraw will be at home after Dec. 1st at 920 Baker street. The Bee joins with their host of friends in congratulations and best of wishes.
